AFTER four days of uncertainty and slow pace of vote counting due to a surge of mail-in votes. US media outlets on Saturday declared Joe Biden as the winner of the November 3 presidential elections.

The 77-year-old former US vice president will become the 46th president of the US, after a victory in Nevada and Pennsylvania, the state where he was born, put him over the 270 electoral votes needed to win.

Welcoming the victory call, Biden said, "America, I'm honored that you have chosen me to lead our great country. The work ahead of us will be hard, but I promise I will be a President for all Americans - whether you voted for me or not."

With Biden's victory, Kamala Harris has become vice-president-elect, the first time in history that a woman — an Indian-American one at that — has been elected to such a White House position.

Before becoming the Democratic presidential nominee, Biden served as vice president under former President Barack Obama. He is also Delaware's longest-serving senator.

Meanwhile, incumbent Republican President Donald Trump, 74, has not yet conceded defeat yet. "We all know why Joe Biden is rushing to falsely pose as the winner, and why his media allies are trying so hard to help him: they don't want the truth to be exposed. The simple fact is this election is far from over," Trump said in a hurriedly issued statement, indicating that the fight is far from over.

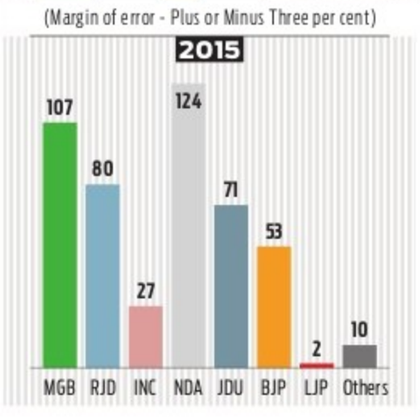
Caste out?
Analysts feel economic factors may override caste preferences this time in Bihar

(Margin of error - Plus or Minus Three per cent)



EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE

NITISH Kumar's 15-year rule in Bihar is set to come to an end in Bihar and Tejashwi Yadav will be the next chief minister, three out of seven exit polls predicted on Saturday.

The projected tally for Rashtriya Janata Dal-led Mahagathbandhan (MBD), which comprises the Congress and several Left parties besides the Tejashwi Yadav-led RJD, ranged from 115 to 161 while 122 seats are needed to form government.

Most of the exit polls also predicted RJD to again emerge as the single largest party in the 243-member Assembly along with a clear dip in the seat tally of Bihar chief minister Nitish Kumar-led JD(U).

While Today's Chanakya-CNN News18 projected 180 seats for the MBD, India Today-Axis My India poll gave the alliance between 139 and 161 seats, against 69-91 for the BJP-led National Democratic Alliance.

Counting of votes for the three-phase Bihar assembly polls, which ended on Saturday, will be held on November 10.

Exit polls are based on feedback from a limited number of voters in select areas.

In terms of vote share, Today's Chanakya projected 44 per cent for the RJD-led opposition alliance and 34 per cent for the NDA. However, ABP-CVoter projected a higher vote share for NDA at 37.7 per cent followed by the grand alliance with 36.3 per cent and 26 per cent for others.

Anke Gowda with his books at his house in Mandya

PICS: UDAYSHANKAR S

THE BOOK STOPS HERE

Mandya man has collected one million books in five decades

KARTHIK K K @Mysuru

CLAD in a white banian and a dhoti, holding a broom by its short wooden handle, he sweeps the huge hall filled with books and papers – looking at him, you won't think he is a possessor of one million books. This has been a routine for Anke Gowda, 72, apart from buying books and magazines over the last five decades.

His Pustaka Mane (literally meaning Book house) boasts of over 10 lakh books of various genres. This book paradise, located at a small village called Haralahalli near Srirangapatna (Mandya district), has not remained a private library of Anke Gowda but a place for research scholars, teachers, writers, critics, competitive exam aspirants and people from all walks of life to refer the books free of cost.

From a tiny book of over 10 pages to those weighing more than 3-4 kg, Anke Gowda has all of them and more. Though Kannada books have a prominent place in his library, there are books in over 20 Indian and foreign languages.

Pustaka Mane has books dating back to 1832 to a new book released last month. And from novels to books on literature, science and technology, mythology. critiques, travelogues, research, astrology, women's and children's literature etc, are housed in this huge library. Anke Gowda dusts all the books every day and makes every effort to organise them for the convenience of his visitors.

Born in a family of agriculturists in Mandya to Marigowda and Ningamma, Anke Gowda comes from a poor family, but had a great passion for reading books. An MA in Kannada literature, he worked as a time-keeper at Pandavapura sugar factory for about 30 years during which he spent nearly 80% of his salary on purchasing books.

Anke Gowda says, "When I was in college, I could not get access to books. This made me think and I wanted to have my own collection. I initially started reading and collecting books published by the Ramakrishna Ashram. My professor Anantharamu's motivational words turned my passion for books into an obsession. Though I worked in a sugar factory, whenever I went out of town, I brought home books."

Anke Gowda started collecting books as a small venture when he was 21 years old. By early 2004, his entire house was full with over 2 lakh books. After learning about Anke Gowda's collection, Sri Hari Khoday, industrialist, helped him in build a huge building in an area of about 22 guntas, which has now become a must-see on every tourist's itinerary.

Gowda visits major book sellers in Majestic, MG Road, Avenue Road in Bengaluru to buy books, besides getting those discarded by libraries and households.

Even today, he and his wife Vijayalakshmi, who has been supporting him, live in this book house, sleep on the floor and cook in a corner. "My collection has helped thousands of people, research scholars and PhD students," he says. Mahadeshwara, a research scholar in history says rare books on history are available at this book house.

NEW BUILDING

Anke Gowda Jnana Pratishthana, the foundation, makes every effort to collect books. A new building is coming up next to his book house where Gowda hopes to make a classification of all the books and keep them in an organized way. As he is unable to employ the required staff for this, even today at the age of 72, he does it single-handedly. This, while more than 250 bags of books are yet to be opened and added to his collection.

Like others, even I could have made pots of money but money can't buy happiness. My collection of books has helped thousands of people and research scholars and PhD students. The only objective of this Pustaka Mane is that whoever comes here should find a book of their choice, read them without having to spend even a single rupee for it

As a kid, Yakub read books at dad's scrap shop in Udupi district

Starting from scrap... raddi shop to film studio

PRAKASH SAMAGA @ Udupi

EVERYONE starts from scratch. But he started from scrap. Though Yakub Khader Gulvady (42) had formal education only till Class 6, his thirst for knowledge made him read old books and newspapers in his father's scrap shop!

It was during 1990, when Yakub was 12 years old, that he started reading newspapers, magazines and other books lying at his father Abdul Khader Beary's scrap shop in Kundapur. This triggered his interest in reading.

Though Yakub started his own scrap collection shop in Tallur, Kundapur, in 2006 which he managed till 2015, he did not give up his reading habit. He slowly moved to directing movies and doing social work.

To know what his father's scrap shop was to him, Yakub says, "If my father was busy weighing the old newspapers and books, my eyes would look for the vernacular weekly and monthly magazines. I thought they were not 'scrap' but a treasure trove of knowledge. I started reading those magazines and books one by one and they kindled the interest in me to think beyond the business of our scrap shop. My father too would support me and not disturb me when I would get hooked on to a book. I never knew that this very habit of reading would make me want to direct movies, learn the art of acting and decide costumes for various roles in the movies."

Yakub's first encounter with movies happened in 2006 when noted film director Girish Kasaravalli called him and sought his assistance in preparing the screenplay for the movie 'Gulabi Talkies'. The movie had Beary-speaking characters and was shot in Kundapur. "Who will miss an opportunity when an eminent director like Kasaravalli calls and gives a chance in his movie? Initially I did not believe Kasaravalli himself was on the line. He came to know about me and my interest in movies through my well-wishers. It was a great experience to decide the costume for actress Umashree as she played the role of a Muslim woman in that movie. That movie won the Swarna Kamal national award in 2007," he says with pride.

Yakub Gulvady

In 2011, director Nikhil Manjoo gave Yakub an opportunity to act in 'Hajj' and the movie won three State film awards. In 2016, film director Nagathihalli Chandrashekhar gave him a role in his movie 'Ishtakamya'. The same year Yakub also produced a movie 'Reservation' and it won the Rajath Kamal national award. Yakub has travelled extensively to 17 countries including the US, the UK, Africa, Saudi Arabia, Singapore, Sri Lanka on various occasions when his movie was premiered there. Yakub's son Fahad (12) and daughter Fahima (7) had acted in 'Triple Talaq' movie.

For the past two months, Yakub is seen sorting and rearranging the items collected at his new scrap shop opened in Gulvady village in Kundapur. He is assisted by two men at the scrap shop. "Two months back, the pandemic had cast a shadow on my movie career. So without worrying much, I took help from friends and opened a new scrap collection shop in Gulvady. I had directed 'Triple Talaq', a Beary language film that premiered at Scott Cinemas in Bristol, UK, in December last year," he says.

"Today I have taken up this scrap collection business again to send out a message that no work is small if one is sincere. My mother Fathima who is 84 years old now, wife and two children have supported my venture as being self-reliant is important in these testing times. I will not abandon this scrap collection business in future. But once normalcy returns, I will continue to work in movies too," he says.

Dr Prakash Tholar, Yakub's friend, says, "His life's journey is an inspiration to many. He gives his 100 per cent in whatever he does. His hard work and dedication brought him laurels many times for his movies."

Church St goes traffic-free, traders anxious

Say initiative good, but could backfire; battery vehicles for the aged, disabled

PREEJA PRASAD@Bengaluru

TRADERS at Church Street are anxious on how the 'no vehicle' initiative at Church Street will pan out. On Saturday, Chief Minister B S Yeddyurappa officially inaugurated the initiative 'Clean Air Street' project by the Directorate of Urban and Land Transport (DULT) along with Indian Institute of Science (IISc) where the street will be open to only pedestrians on weekends, till February 2021.

Suhail Yusuf, secretary of the Brigade Shops and Establishments' Association told TNIE, "Why make people walk on the road when there are footpaths by the side. The need of the hour is that we need more roads to cater to the increasing traffic. And shorter routes are required. There's always traffic on that road, so why close it. Businesses are going. Nobody will park their vehicle somewhere else and come. The road has both pedestrian and car parking," said Yusuf, who is also a traffic expert. The 750-metre-long street connects Brigade Road and Museum Cross Road, which lie in the heart of the Central Business District in the city.

According to Deepak Batavia, president, Church Street Shop Owners' Association said, "We have to see if this is feasible in the long run. It is a new concept and a good initiative," he said. On Saturday, the street observed free testing for Covid symptoms, and eight BBMP marshals ensured that masks are worn at all times, and a private music band performed near MG Road Metro Station. He added that 100 slots have been booked by DULT at Sobha Mall for car parking. Restaurants and cafes have been encouraged to use a part of the pavement to lay out their tables, and use it as part of their outdoor seating space.

The road will be vehicle-free from 10 am on Saturdays till midnight on Sunday. City Police Commissioner Kamal Pant passed an order to this effect recently. For residents, a single point of entry and exit has been fixed on the MG Road side, and Rest House Road. A battery operated vehicle is present for elders and those with disability.

IISc-KSDMA'S WORKPLACE READINESS INDICATOR GETS INTERNATIONAL FAME

PEARL MARIA D'SOUZA
@Bengaluru

A tool developed by scientists in Bengaluru to assess a firm's readiness to allow workers back into offices in a safe manner has elicited both domestic and global interest.

The COVID-19 Workplace Readiness Indicator was developed by the Centre for Networked Intelligence (CNI) at the Indian Institute of Science and the Karnataka State Disaster Management Authority (KSDMA) with Corporate Social Responsibility support from Cisco.

Since its launch in June, the researchers have received a number of queries about the app, the largest chunk being from the IT/ITES sector (48%), followed by research and development sector (14), manufacturing (8%) and governments (7%).

However, they recently received a query from South Africa and one from a Nagaland-based developer who reached out to the team to say that he had drawn ideas from their tool to develop a similar one for his home state.

"We were contacted by a company in South Africa informing us that they wanted to make use of our open-source code. We helped them understand the design and customize the tool for their context," said Preetam Patil, a member of the CNI team which developed the app. The company's representative also said that a provincial government in South Africa is considering using the tool.

The tool suggests a simple readiness threshold that organisations need to meet or exceed in order to operate effectively while managing their pandemic response. It takes into account broad epidemic factors and social objectives, and calculates a firm's readiness based on indices such as infrastructure, precautions, outreach, employee interactions, transport, details of eateries, hygiene and sanitation.

Companies can then decide on a how to plan work shifts, what precautions to put in place, and company advisories, based on its objectives.

Interest in the tool was high in June-July, but has gradually declined. The tool's website has seen over 3,700 unique visitors. Although firms across the country have resumed operations to varying degrees, the researchers say the tool is still relevant. "As workplaces ramp up operations towards normalcy, it is easy to lose sight of precautions due to lengthy Standard Operating Procedures. Our readiness tool can serve as a handy planner for common precautions organised into different categories," Preetam says.

The team is continuing to add features to the tool, the latest being a ranking system. "We have included a percentile rank within a category if there are more than 50 entries in a category to indicate how the organisation is placed within its category," said Preetam.

How do you look at the prospect of the life insurance industry in the aftermath of the pandemic? Do you think it has offered an opportunity for the life insurers to grow?

Yes. The industry had seen a steep slump in growth in the first quarter immediately after the pandemic. However, it has made a strong come back since then. Life Insurance has not only provided risk cover, but also instilled a habit of compulsory saving among the people. And the pandemic situation has validated this custom. The pandemic has made people realize the gaps in their financial security and the life insurance awareness has significantly increased.

As a result, the demand for life insurance is on the increase and it will become a cornerstone of personal financial planning. The demand for pure term and health insurance will see a rise in the days to come enabling the industry to register good growth.

Incidentally, Life Insurance Council has also initiated an awareness campaign viz., 'Sabse Pehle Life Insurance' and that is sure to increase the awareness level among the public at large.

SUNDAY INTERVIEW

Sanjiv Kumar, CEO, Karnataka, on challenges of the recent polls

RAMU PATIL @Bengaluru

Elections to four Legislative Council seats and bypolls to two Assembly segments were conducted safely amid the Covid19 pandemic. Though the Election Commission ensured precaution at polling booths, Covid norms were violated during campaigning. Chief Electoral Officer (CEO) Sanjiv Kumar told The New Sunday Express that they took adequate precautions and acted on every complaint filed. Excerpts.

What were the challenges faced in conducting the elections during the Covid pandemic?
The process of democratic governance cannot be just postponed indefinitely. Covid is the new normal and the Election Commission took this challenge to ensure that within the constraints and challenges how elections can be conducted without jeopardising anyone's health and ensuring that all core democratic functions of election governance happen on time. Our personnel ensured that all precautions were taken, and the Health Department too extended help. It was a good exercise and we are gaining experience. It is not over till we go through the counting and announcement of results.

In hindsight, do you think measures taken were adequate or anything more was required?
We took adequate precautions, but definitely, still, as a society, we have to be more proactive. There were not many violations in polling stations or in places where nominations were filed. Violations were during campaigning. That again shows a general trend and not necessarily associated with the electoral process. We have to be more communicative. All stakeholders have to come forward to communicate as taking precaution not only helps the individual, but also the whole society. If society has to be saved from coronavirus, people have to adhere to norms. That was slightly a difficult task. However, cases were booked and are being investigated.

> We took adequate precautions, but definitely, still, as a society, we have to be more proactive. There were not many violations in polling stations or in places where nominations were filed
> Sanjiv Kumar, Chief Electoral Officer

Despite EC's best efforts, guidelines were violated. What action was taken against such violations?
As many as 39 cases were booked and they are being investigated (by the police). Marshals caught the violators and fined them. These are criminal cases under the Disaster Management Act that you are endangering the life of others, and infecting others them with communicable diseases. These are serious charges.

There is a perception that the action taken by EC is not swift and severe. Some leaders also say that they don't know what happens to their complaints.
That is not correct. That may be more a rhetoric and far away from reality because every complaint is acted upon in 24 hours and on a poll day it is done in two hours. As many as 61 cases of MCC (Model Code of Conduct) violations were registered – 36 in RR Nagar and 25 in Sira. These cases are under IPC and Representation of People Act. Also, 200 excise cases were registered. Many officials were also changed based on complaints and various other reasons. However, not all complaints are verifiable. In 2019 general elections and also in 2019 byelections, we had the cVigil app. Whatever you are recording is geo-stamped and time tagged. It is better to upload a complaint through cVigil as it becomes valid evidence. No one can deny it. It all depends on evidence and without it complaints have no meaning. All complaints have been acted upon, but some complaints may be in the nature that is too disproportionate to time. The Election Commission depends on facts.

EC helped Covid patients to come and vote in personal protective equipment suits. Was it not better to allow them to cast postal ballots?
That option was given. For the first time, Covid patients, people very vulnerable (senior citizens) and people with disabilities were given that option. Many of them opted, while many did not and came to polling stations.

Exit poll indicates BJP will bag by-elections seats

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Bengaluru

IF the exit poll is anything to go by, the ruling BJP is likely to win both Sira and RR Nagar Assembly bypolls. The Congress, however, was sceptical of the exit poll and expressed confidence that the party would win both seats.

According to the exit poll, BJP candidate N Munirathna will win in RR Nagar, Congress candidate H Kusuma will stand second and JDS candidate Krishnamurthy third. In Sira, BJP candidate Dr Rajesh Gowda will breast the victory tape, leaving behind Congress' T B Jayachandra and JDS candidate Ammajamma in the second and third spots, said news television channels, citing the exit poll conducted by CVoter.

However, KPCC working president Eshwar Khandre said exit polls can go wrong. "The BJP is in power and it could look like they are winning. But voters know better, and they are in our favour. Our internal survey says Congress will win both seats," he told TNSE. People are unhappy with the BJP government as there is no development, he added.

BJP National Secretary C T Ravi, concurring with the exit poll, said the BJP's internal report as well as chief minister's intelligence report favour the party in both constituencies. "We will win RR Nagar by 25,000 lead and in Sira by 15,000," Ravi said.

From the beginning, BJP was confident of winning RR Nagar. "In Sira, though initially we had a 50:50 chance, clarity emerged in later stages. When the polling was just one week away, it was clear that the BJP would win in Sira," he added. CM BS Yediyurappa too had expressed confidence of winning both seats with a big margin.

K'taka releases roadmap for implementing NEP in 10 years

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Bengaluru

DEPUTY Chief Minister Dr Ashwath Narayan and Primary and Secondary Education Minister S Suresh Kumar on Saturday released the Karnataka Plan for Implementing NEP.

The document was prepared by the Task Force for Implementation of NEP 2020, headed by former chief secretary SV Ranganath, which was formed in March.

In a brief ceremony, the two ministers also launched the Kannada translation of the NEP 2020 document. Exuding confidence about Karnataka being the first state to come out with a report in this regard, Dr Narayan said that other states have not yet formed a committee.

The report comprises 500 points on school education and 200 points on higher education that the NEP outlines, and gives greater clarity on the document, he added. The ministers will be taking the report to the cabinet for approval shortly.

Among the recommendations of the Task Force are setting up of various councils, revision of the curriculum and foundation level of schooling to begin at nursery (instead of Class 1). Coordination and alignment across a range of departments, functions, bodies and entities are essential, and to address this, the Task Force suggests creating a Karnataka Shikshana Aayog or the Karnataka Education Commission (KEC). The CM is to chair this body, and convene a meeting at least twice a year, or as often as is deemed necessary, to review the progress of education in the State in its totality, and to appropriately empower and motivate the KEC.

The Higher Education Minister and Primary and Secondary Education Minister are to be vice-chairpersons of the KEC, Narayan added.

While implementation of the NEP spans over 15 years, the State government has decided to complete the process within 10 years, he said.

The report will also be discussed with stakeholders for their opinions and suggestions to make the NEP practical. "As 2020 is a zero year, we will begin implementation of the report from 2021," he added.

KEY TASKS INCLUDE

1. To establish an Implementation Mission with specific targets for a quarterly calendar for the next 3 years, and public review every quarter; constitute an Implementation Task Force
2. Immediate provision for 'implementation fund' in Samagra Shikshana and Karnataka State Higher Education Council
3. Establish regulatory bodies -- State School Standards Authority and Karnataka Higher Education Regulatory Council
4. New KSU Act to establish proposed higher education structure
5. Separation of powers within existing bodies in education dept
6. Amendments to service rules: tenure-ships in KPS/school complexes; delineate teacher career progression and ensure vertical career progression
7. Establish Special Education Zones across identified sections within state
8. Establish gender and disability funds along with other inclusive education measures for students from socio-economically disadvantaged groups

FOR HIGHER EDUCATION

1. Create governance and regulation structure for new Higher Education Institutions through legislation, Karnataka Universities Act

   This should be an overarching legislation to provide for constitution, appointment, functioning, rules and regulations, roles and responsibilities of independent, autonomous bodies
2. This should be an overarching legislation to provide for constitution, appointment, functioning, rules and regulations, roles and responsibilities of independent, autonomous bodies

FOR SCHOOL EDUCATION

1. Establish Foundational Years' Wing and the Literacy and Numeracy Wing
2. Curricular reforms to transform current structure of schooling to 5+3+3+4 (Foundational, Preparatory, Middle and Secondary Stage). Focus should be on integrating Class XI and XII into secondary stage, while 'Foundation Years' wing needs to begin work on the 5-year integrated curriculum. Revision of curriculum to reduce existing load
3. Curriculum and pedagogic revisions to be undertaken by Department of State Educational Research and Training (DSERT) for Foundational and Preparatory stages; middle and secondary stage to be taken up after NCF 2021 is released

Earlier, Ravi had requested Chief Minister BS Yediyurappa to accept his resignation. At the Kannada Rajyotsava awards ceremony, Ravi had said he was very happy working as Kannada and Culture minister. "It is a privilege to work for our State and language and I was happy. TNIE tweet helps man start his small business

ASHWINI M SRIPAD @Bengaluru

FROM train to footpath, and now his own small shop. Dharmaraj's journey shows 'working for peanuts' can bring happiness too. But this became possible after a TNIE tweet.

Dharmaraj, 33, a visually impaired person, used to earn his livelihood by selling chikki, peanuts, mobile phone covers etc inside trains. His life came to a standstill after the pandemic outbreak – he was stopped from entering trains. Then Dharmaraj contacted Prashanth of Amrutha Bindhu, an NGO, who helped him.

He then decided to sell peanuts and pens and other items on the roadside in Malleswaram, for which he wanted Rs 7,000. The tweet by TNIE reporter helped him get over Rs 30,000 in just two days.

Then this reporter contacted Social Welfare Department Additional Secretary Dr Nagambika Devi , a senior IAS officer. Dharamaraj belongs to the SC community and is eligible for financial aid. On Friday, the department approved Rs 50,000 aid including a partial loan to Dharmaraj

"I cannot believe they sent a car, and I am here at the Vidhana Soudha and they are giving me Rs 50,000," he said in joy on Saturday.

Dharmaraj started his 'business' on a footpath near Malleswaram Library with some of the initial money he got. "I used to make Rs 600 a day in trains and Rs 400 after I shifted to the footpath. One tweet changed my life," he said.

Dharamaraj has identified a few tiny shops in Malleswaram, he will finalise one. " I bought a sewing machine for my wife, who used to work in a garment factory. We will start our business. Together, we can provide a decent life for our children," he said.

MASKS, GLOVES AND SOCIAL DISTANCE AT RAJYOTSAVA AWARDS EVENT

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bengaluru

WHEN the Volvo bus stopped at the venue, all the awardees alighted wearing masks and gloves. That marked the beginning of the Rajyotsava award function on Saturday.

Every year, Ravindra Kalakshetra, the venue, would be crowded. But this year, there were limited seats.

What struck one was the seating arrangements, thanks to Covid-19. Each seat maintained social distancing! There was not only some distance between the awardees but also the audience. In the hall, every alternate row was sealed to avoid crowding.

On the dais too, there were multiple levels with eight awardees in a row. The front row was occupied by Chief Minister B S Yediyurappa and the ministers. Media persons had a separate entry.

The CM gave away awards to 65 personalities from various fields. Girija Narayan (light music), T Venkatesh from Abhimani Prakashana (Media) were among those who donated their award amount of Rs 1 lakh to the CM Relief Fund while Sidramappa Patil who got the award for agriculture donated Rs 50,000.

Speaking at the occasion, Yediyurappa stressed that the government is observing this year as Kannada Kayaka Varsha where various activities will be undertaken to popularise Kannada. They will also focus on technology usage in Kannada.

Kannada and Culture Minister C T Ravi, Deputy CM Lakshman Savadi, Bengaluru South MP Tejasvi Surya were among those present.

Every year, the award ceremony is held on November 1. This year, due to the code of conduct, the event was conducted on Saturday (November 7).

Cong slams new policy for employees

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Bengaluru

THE Congress on Saturday slammed the State government's proposed move to ban government employees from acting in films, television programmes and publishing books without permission from a competent authority.

In a letter to Chief Minister BS Yediyurappa, Opposition leader Siddaramaiah said the government should not go ahead with "inhumane policies". The issue needs to be discussed in detail in the assembly before the government takes any decision, the former CM said, and asked the government to constitute an expert committee to look into laws enacted in other countries.

Siddaramaiah said it is not correct to restrict government employees from writing or engaging in research work, instead, the government must encourage those involved in such activities. Many good writers and those who can excel in the fields of culture, science and technology work in government departments, he added. There were many contradictions in the proposed draft, which need to be looked into, he added.

The government has proposed to ban government employees from acting in films, television programmes and writing books and has issued draft notification inviting suggestions and objections, if any.

BJP National Secretary CT Ravi was on Saturday relieved of his post as Kannada and Culture Minister. His resignation was accepted by CM Yediyurappa after a 34-day gap

Cracker shops to open for 10 days, no crowding

Thermal screening and sanitiser a must at all stalls I EXPRESS

A day after allowing only 'green crackers' this Diwali, the Karnataka government has released revised guidelines for their sale, which will be permitted only for 10 days between Nov 7-16 and with Covid protocol in place.

Chief Secretary TM Vijay Bhaskar on Saturday issued the revised guidelines and also directed Deputy Commissioners (DCs) and Superintendents of Police (SPs), Bengaluru City Police Commissioner and Bruhat Bengaluru Mahanagara Palike (BBMP) to enforce these guidelines strictly.

The government has narrowed the sale window for crackers from 17 days to 10 days, and has said that stalls would be licensed to sell only green crackers.

Guidelines state that sellers must ensure adequate ventilation, sanitise shop premises each day, and set up thermal screening and hand sanitiser facilities for customers. Buyers and sellers must wear masks, and there must be six-metre gap between stalls, rules state.

Despite these guidelines, public health experts fear that cracker stalls can become small clusters of new cases if people are not careful. A senior epidemiologist said, "Authorities have to ensure that physical distancing and proper wearing of masks is strictly enforced in these stalls. Or else, it could lead to an increase in the number of cases."

While guidelines state that shops display the licences issued to them by the departments concerned, and only those with NEERI-certified products can be granted licences, there is no clarity among officials on exactly what green crackers are.

To overcome the problem, the Karnataka State Pollution Control Board has sent a detailed report to all officials concerned. Officials said a series of technology-assisted measures have been introduced this year to ensure that both licence-issuing officers and consumers can identify approved crackers.

"The first thing to know is that each firecracker packet will have a CSIR-NEERI logo and a QR code printed on it. Scanning the QR code will open a link which will direct one to the details of the product," said a senior KSPCB official. Through that link, customers would get information about licences, approvals, certificate from CSIR-NEERI, and the Supreme Court order.

"If the link does not show this information, or the QR code fails, the cracker has not been approved," the official said.

Meanwhile, the Ministry of Science and Technology has also set up helplines (+91 90495 98046 and +91 86177 70964) to address queries related to QR codes, formulations and emissions certificates. Queries can also be emailed to director@neeri.res.in.

BBMP begins testing staff at city restaurants

IFFATH FATHIMA @ Bengaluru

In a bid to ensure that people visiting restaurants are safe from infection, Bruhat Bengaluru Mahanagara Palike (BBMP) has undertaken Covid testing for restaurant staff and owners.

Back in June, BBMP had plans to conduct testing in market areas, supermarkets, medical establishments and restaurants. In August, testing camps were set up. Over the past few weeks, this drive was expanded to include restaurants.

Three days ago, BBMP carried out testing in the Central Business District.

"On Wednesday, BBMP volunteers came to the restaurant and told us we need to get ourselves tested. It is a good initiative. Since restaurants receive good crowds, we should be safe so we don't spread any infection to others," said Rufqa Hassan, who owns The Only Place on Museum Road.

In Koramangala, volunteers tested staff at 15 restaurants. "Though the staff were asymptomatic, many tested positive and were isolated. Once a staffer tests positive, sanitisation is carried out, and we try to reach out to customers the staffer would have come in contact with. As many customers make advanced bookings, restaurants have their contacts and it is easy to trace them," said Rahul Francis, volunteer and coordinator of BBMP mobile testing team — Ward 151.

Francis said the government needs to bring in a circular, asking staffers to get themselves tested every month. "The government should add that in case anyone reports to work after three days' leave, they need to bring a Covid-negative result. New employees should get a negative report 72 hours before reporting," he added.

Dr Bhaskar Rajkumar, nodal officer of BBMP East Zone, said, "It is not mandatory for restaurant staff to get tested. However, we have started doing this as a precautionary measure."

Deputy Chief Minister Dr Ashwath Narayan and Primary and Secondary Education Minister S Suresh Kumar on Saturday released the Karnataka Plan for Implementing NEP

Pub murder: Gangster's bid to make it big

Rivalry in Mangaluru spills over into Bengaluru streets; Cops say it could help build image of accused Vicky Shetty

BALA CHAUHAN @ Bengaluru

THE murder of pub owner Manish Shetty, allegedly by rival gangster Vicky Shetty in the city last month, is the latter's "attempt to climb up the ladder in the underworld, besides personal rivalry", according to a senior police officer.

Discounting the 'stature' of Manish and Vicky in the crime abyss, the officer said neither was a big name in the gangland of Karnataka, as is being projected. "Manish was murdered over personal rivalry. He had a criminal record. Vicky Shetty is a gangster, but of not much reckoning. At one time, he was an associate of extradited don Ravi Poojary and has been using this connection to build his image," said the officer.

"Vicky Shetty's projection as a ganglord is only going to benefit him. It will serve his purpose of creating fear among the people and his targets. This is the typical modus operandi of desperate criminals who want to scale up the ladder in the world of crime," the officer added.

Around 9pm October 15, Manish was shot outside his Duet Pub, off Brigade Road, by bike-borne assailants with a smooth-bore breech loading gun, and then hacked with a machete. Two days later, police had arrested Shashikiran alias Munna (45) and Nitya Shetty alias Nikki (29) from Somwarpet in Kodagu, Ganesha (39) from Mangaluru and Akshay (32) from Bantwal.

According to the police, Manish and Nitya were involved in a gang war some years ago in Mangaluru, and the latter had nurtured a rivalry against the former since then.

Meanwhile, two regional TV channels in Bengaluru and Mangaluru had allegedly received phone calls from a person identifying himself as Vicky Shetty, who claimed responsibility for the Manish murder case and said it was an act of revenge for a murder in coastal Karnataka in September, hinting at gangster Kishan Hegde's murder in Udupi on September 24. Udupi police had arrested Manoj Kodikere and his associates in the murder case.

"Hegde and Kodikere were into financing and money-lending business. Hegde reportedly owed huge amounts of money to Kodikere. In an audio that had gone viral, he was heard threatening Kodikere that he will not return the money to him," said another police officer. "Hegde may have been murdered to send a message across to others whom Kodikere had lent money to," he added.

Raids conducted in Mysuru, Udupi too

THERE was high drama when ACB officials knocked on her door in the morning. The moment Sudha saw the raiding party, she started screaming, and locked the door from inside. ACB officials warned that they will bring the local police to break the door open and her entire neighbourhood would learn about the raid. Only then did she allow the officers inside. A special team that included women officials searched her properties and office.

ACB stated that a case of disproportionate assets and irregularity had been filed against Sudha, who is now an administrative officer at the IT-BT department, in June 2020. Based on an FIR, the sleuths conducted simultaneous raids at six places, including her two houses at Thindlu and Yelahanka in Bengaluru, her friend's residences in Mysuru and Udupi and her current office at Shathinagar on Lalbagh Road. The raid went on for more than five hours.

Sudha came under the scanner after a public complaint was filed before a court by TJ Abraham, president of the Anti-Corruption and Environmental Forum. He alleged that Sudha was involved in corruption over the last few years. The ACB acted after the court issued an order to conduct the raids, an ACB press release stated.

Sudha's husband Stroiney Pais is a Kannada film producer and tried to launch their son with a home production in 2018.

Abraham told TNSE, "I had complained to ACB in June 2019 and January 2020. But they did not take it seriously. I then decided to approach the court and filed a petition in June this year. The court issued the order after verifying the documents. The police then registered the FIR against her and asked me to provide documents and other details on her involvement. I had recordings of Sudha openly demanding Rs 5 lakh to sign each file."

Not the first time in 2015, the Lokayukta police had raided Sudha's residence and other officials over an alleged illegal transfer of agricultural land to residential purpose. She was then the additional land acquisition officer at BDA.

Raids in six places

the raids were conducted on her residence named Aaradhana in Thindlu, a flat belonging to her in Shivanahalli at Yelahanka, her current office in Shanthi Nagar and her friends' residences on Ballari Road, BEML Layout in Mysuru and a residence in Udupi.

ACB recovers documents, laptops

Mysuru: A 10-member team of the Anti-corruption Bureau (ACB) raided a house at BEML Layout near Srirampura in Mysuru early on Saturday morning, and recovered several important documents pertaining to properties, printers, and laptops. "We conducted raids at six places simultaneously and based on information of a 'Benami' operation in Mysuru, we conducted the raid here. More details will be shared after a report is submitted," said an officer. Though the raids were conducted based on a court order in connection with a petition against the KAS officer, the raid on the house of her relative in Mysuru was a last minute decision, revealed a source.ENS

1.83kg of smuggled gold recovered at KIA

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Bengaluru

A TOTAL of 1.836 kilograms of gold valued at Rs 94.02 lakh were recovered from international passengers at Kempegowda International Airport who were allegedly smuggling from Gulf countries. The seizures were made in the arrivals area by the Air Intelligence unit of Airport Customs on Friday.

A senior customs official told The New Indian Express that the biggest seizure was made from a Kodagu native who arrived from Dubai by an Emirates flight. "We found 2320 grams of gold paste taped on to the calf muscle of one Mohammed, who arrived at KIA by flight no. EK564 on Friday morning. After extricating the paste, the gold we could get from it was 1435 grams. The recovered gold has a market value of Rs 73.49 lakh," the official said. The person was caught based on the profiling of passengers that is being done on a regular basis, he added.

Another Dubai-based passenger had resorted to a similar technique of concealing gold in the form of paste. Mohammed Ashraf, a native of Honnavar in Karnataka had powdered gold and covered it with paste. "The paste weighed 399 grams and the gold content in it was 251 grams which is worth Rs 12.77 lakh," the official said. Ashraf came by an Air India Express repatriation flight (IX1246) which reached Bengaluru on Friday evening.

The third incident involved crude gold. "Bringing this gold in any form inside the country is banned. A chain made of Crude Gold weighing 150 grams was worn by a passenger from Kuwait who came by a Kuwait Airways flight (KU1353)," he added.

Two held for online cricket betting

Bengaluru : The City Crime Branch (CCB) have arresting two men, seized Rs 10 lakh and five mobile phones in a crackdown on online cricket betting. Akash (31) and his friend Naveen Daani (29) are residents of Chamarajpet and were nabbed on Cunningham Road. A senior police officer said that acting on a tip-off, the duo were nabbed when they were trying to contact clients through phone. They were using two mobile apps to run the online betting of the ongoing IPL matches. During the interrogation, the accused confessed that they had been conducting cricket betting from the last year and also revealed some of their associates' names. Efforts are on to nab other accused.

Issue provisional degree certificate, HC tells Rajiv Gandhi University

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Bengaluru

THE Karnataka high Court while directing RGUHS to issue a provisional degree certificate to a student, said it hoped that the authorities will communicate to other universities to follow suit.

The court's direction to Rajiv Gandhi University of Health Sciences (RGUHS) comes in the wake of inconvenience being caused to students in getting admission to higher studies and applying for jobs on account of the delay in holding the convocation ceremony owing to Covid-19.

The court passed the order while allowing partly the petition filed by Lanson Brijesh Colaco, a student from Mangaluru, seeking directions to the university to issue a final MBBS degree certificate.

"If the university fails to issue a certificate within two weeks, it has to pay Rs 5,000 per week to the petitioner, and the same should be recovered from officials responsible for delay," the judge added.

Justice Krishna S Dixit said, "This court hopes that the authorities will issue appropriate communication to other universities or colleges to avoid inconvenience to students in such circumstances by issuing PDC and treat it on par with the award of degree for all practical purposes."

"It is a matter of common knowledge that a degree certificate in hand is worth ten in the cupboard of the campus, since gaining entry to the portals of higher education and for securing employment within the country or abroad, normally depends upon the award of degrees by the universities. The non-production of certificates is possibly resulting in the loss of a valuable seat; the same is true of employment," the judge said.

MID-DAY MEALS: 5-MONTH GAP MAY ALREADY HAVE DONE HARM

TEAM TNIE

THE five-month suspension of supply of foodgrains to nearly 48 lakh students of government primary and secondary schools under the Mid-day Meals Scheme across Karnataka from June onwards came at a time when studies were already pointing at stunted growth among Indian children, clouding their prospects of becoming fit and productive adults in the future.

Just before the pandemic struck, an analysis by the Karnataka Knowledge Commission (KKC) found that up to 40 per cent of children in nine districts of Ballari, Vijayapura, Bidar, Davanagere, Kalaburagi, Bagalkot, Haveri, Koppal and Yadgir suffered stunted growth. Across Karnataka, 36.2 per cent of children aged 0-59 months were found to be stunted because of malnutrition.

The suspension of supplies also came at a time when proper nutrition was considered crucial to boost the children's immunity against Covid-19.

A United Nations World Food Programme's analysis with the Ministry of Statistics on food and nutrition security in mid-2019 indicated that up to 31.4 per cent of Indian children could be stunted due to malnutrition by 2022.

While continuing the supplies to students was crucial, the pandemic ironically halted the process due to logistics and fears of infection spread.

Though schools remained closed from March-end onwards, the state government changed tact from cooked meals (as children stopped coming to school) to supplying foodgrains at their doorsteps till May, before halting the process completely.

Now, the state government has released Rs 449.84 crore to the primary and secondary education department to distribute backlog foodgrains for the period between June and October.

Though some hope lies with the resumption of supplies soon, the five-month break has been way to long for many families across the state.

Suryakant Jamadar, whose son goes to the government high school in Neelkhed village of Kalaburagi-North taluk, said that though the supplies under the Mid-day Meal Scheme were suspended, the ration given under Anna Bhagya and by donors during the lockdown helped them to a certain extent. But now they have exhausted their stock.

When the foodgrain supply was stopped, the kids of daily wage labourers were the worst affected in Udupi district. Some migrant labourers had returned to their hometowns in Ballari, Koppal, Raichur and other districts in North Karnataka, while some were still in the vicinity of Malpe fisheries harbour staying in rented accommodation. On the one hand, they had no work, and therefore no income, while on the other, their children were deprived of foodgrain supplies.

A few parents from Koppal said some Good Samaritans helped their families by providing groceries for about a month, helping them tide over the bad days.

Sunanda, who works as the main cook under the Mid-day Meal Scheme at Government High School, Malpe, told The New Sunday Express that though the preparation of mid-day meal was stopped at the school soon after the lockdown, they ensured each kid was supplied with 150 gm of rice, 30 gm of pulses, 75 ml of palm oil and 150 ml of milk every day. Yet, children faced the problem in September as the stock supplied under scheme got over. "However, we are ready now to restart the preparation of mid-day meals. Once the government gives the green signal, the kitchen will be reopened," she said.

Mid-Day Meals Officer of Kalaburagi district Ramalingappa said rice is in sufficient quantity for distribution in the first phase of 53 days. "But we do not have red gram. As per the present guidelines, we have to distribute 100 gm of rice and 60 gm of red gram to students of up to 5th standard per day and 150 gm of rice and 95 gm of red gram to students from 6th to 10th standard per day. We have submitted our requirement of red gram for the first 53 days and of both rice and red gram for the next 55 days. In all, around three lakh students were benefitting from Mid-day Meal Scheme in Kalaburagi district," Ramalingappa said.

About 110 students, majority of whom are children of migrant labourers from Raichur district, at the Government Primary School at Baddihalli were affected. "Their parents lost jobs during the lockdown and some local philanthropists supplied mid-day meals on their own and also from the kitchen of Siddaganga Mutt," said Headmaster Venkatappa. "Now, students keep coming enquiring about food to take home, but we have stock for only 30 per cent of them. So, we have not started distribution yet," he informed.

Some distribution has already restarted a week ago at Kadashettihalli village in Gubbi taluk. "The children come with bags to collect the ration. Looking at them collecting 150 grams of rice, 20 grams of dal, 3-5 grams of edible oil per day I felt they are really in need of the ration," says Kadashettihalli Sathish, the School Development Management Committee president.

The suspension of supplies has impacted many families in rural areas of Mysuru district, especially in remote villages of HD Kote, Hunsur, Periyapatna and Nanjangud taluks. It has forced many of the 2,09,334 children from 2,366 government and aided schools covered under Mid-day Meal Scheme to work alongside their parents. Many parents who have lost their jobs are forcing their children to take up odd jobs to support the family.

Mid-Day Meal in-charge officer of Mysuru district Lingarajayya said, "We are awaiting the commissioner's order to distribute the ration under the mid-day meals scheme. We will distribute it in two stages, for 53 days in the first phase and 55 days in the second stage. Wherever a child or parent cannot collect the ration, the teacher or designated officer will go to their doorstep and deliver it," he said.

The Dharwad district education department has written to the state government to release good grains of 54 days for June and July. In the absence of mid-day meals, the department is giving foodgrains to 1.96 lakh students in the district.

The Dharwad district committee of All-India Democratic Students' Organisation has cautioned that delays in distributing foodgrains could make children suffer from acute malnutrition.

THE CONCERN

While the state is in consultation with officials and School Development Monitoring Committees on reopening of schools, a source privy to the proceedings said schools are unlikely to reopen till January, putting the education and nutritional aspects of children at stake.

Teachers, too, expressed concerns over foodgrains reaching the children in right quantities at their homes even after supplies resume.

A government primary school teacher in Shivamogga said children used to have milk and freshly prepared meals at school, where foodgrains and vegetables were given in right quantities. After the pandemic, the government decided to deliver foodgrains to children. But with that stopped too, the nutritional aspects of children is a concern.

Now that the state government plans to resume supplies, health experts and educationists point to the need for eggs and milk to be part of the children's diet, although these remain out of the state government's mandate.

Niranjanaradhya VP, Development Educationist, says if the government thinks about the nutritional aspects of children during the crisis, the only option is to provide concrete protein. "The quantity of dal is less, while wheat and rice are carbs. Government schoolchildren from marginalised communities happily eat boiled egg, but there is resistance from some parents (about eggs being in the diet)," he said.

Kerala church routed money via hawala: I-T

Tax sleuths raid 66 of church's establishments across country

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @Kochi

AFTER conducting detailed raids on the premises of self-styled evangelist and Believers Eastern Church founder K P Yohannan at different locations in the country, Income Tax (I-T) sleuths have found that the group belonging to the evangelist routed unaccounted money through organisations which remained only on paper.

"The group runs about 30 trusts, registered across the country, and most of them exist only on paper and have been found to be used for routing the unaccounted funds and for accommodation transactions. It has been found that the modus operandi of the group is to systematically inflate expenses with the help of other parties, who will return the inflated amount in cash through domestic hawala channels to the functionaries of the group," said an I-T department communique.

According to the I-T department, the searches were carried out based on credible information that the group, which enjoyed exemption under the I-T Act, 1961 as charitable/religious trust, received donations from foreign countries ostensibly for helping the poor and destitute and evangelical purposes but was actually siphoning off such tax-exempted funds to engage in unaccounted cash transactions for personal and other illegal expenses in real estate transactions.

"The group runs places of worship, several schools and colleges across the country. The action covered 66 premises in Kerala, Tamil Nadu, West Bengal, Karnataka, Chandigarh, Punjab and Telangana. During the search, evidence of systematic inflation of expenses in consumables, construction, real estate development and payment of salary etc was found," the statement said.

"The searches shed light on a number of real estate transactions involving unaccounted cash payments. Related documents such as sale agreements have been seized. The group has also inflated the price in real estate transactions to make it appear as though the money received in donations is being spent on the activities of the trusts," the statement added.

The official statement also said that the evidence found so far indicates that the siphoning of funds in cash may run into several hundred crores.

Raids at IT firm: Unaccounted income of Rs 1,000cr detected

Chennai: The Income Tax department conducted raids at six locations in Chennai and Madurai of IG3 Infra Limited, a Chennai-based group operating in the IT Infra sector on Wednesday, and detected an unaccounted income of ₹1,000 crore. The search also unearthed evidence relating to the group's investments in a Singapore-registered company -- it was found that the group had suppressed foreign income received in form of share subscription equivalent to ₹200 crore, taxable in India, said the I-T department. Incorporated in 2004 as ETL Infrastructure Service Limited (EISL), IG3 Infra also owns the Chennai One IT Special Economic Zone. The group specialises in developing and managing secure business infrastructure across high-growth sectors, such as Information Technology and Hospitality. Its board of directors include C Ramach-andran, a retired senior civil servant who was instrumental in bringing Ford Motors and Hyundai Motors to set up plants in TN, while he was the Industries Secretary. ENS

Bineesh's ED custody extended till Nov 11

BALA CHAUHAN @Bengaluru

THE Directorate of Enforcement (ED) custody of Bineesh Kodiyeri has been extended for the third time till November 11 by the Special Court for Prevention of Money Laundering Act (PMLA) cases in Bengaluru. Bineesh's ED custody was to end on Saturday. He was produced before the court on Saturday and was further remanded in ED custody for five days. The ED had arrested Bineesh on October 29 under Section 19 (1) of the PMLA, 2002. According to sources Bineesh has not been co-operating with the ED.

"Bineesh has seven to eight bank accounts in Kerala in which unaccounted cash deposits running into crores of rupees have reportedly been deposited by unknown sources in the last four to five years. He has indulged in transferring/layering huge proceeds of crime into various bank accounts," said sources.

"The sources of cash deposits in his accounts are being probed. Bineesh had reportedly created some shell companies in some of which, the two-drug accused Rijesh Ravindran and Mohammed Anoop are shown as partner and director. Bineesh funded Anoop's narcotic drugs business in Bengaluru. The latter's debit card was reportedly recovered during the ED search at Bineesh's residence. Money running into lakhs of rupees has been withdrawn from Anoop's account, which along with other evidence indicates that the he was Bineesh's benamidar," they added.

"There is a gross mismatch between the Income Tax Returns (ITRs) filed by Bineesh and his income," said sources.

Ravindran and Anoop were arrested in the city by the Narcotics Control Bureau, Bengaluru zonal unit in August. Earlier, on October 17 the ED had arrested Anoop under PMLA and during his custodial interrogation he had allegedly told ED officials that he "indulged in sale and purchase of narcotic drugs," the ED had earlier stated.

Anoop's debit card linked to Bineesh's restaurant

Kochi: The debit card seized by ED during the 25-hour-long raid at Bineesh Kodiyeri's residence in Thiruvananth-apuram -- bearing the name of Bengaluru drug case accused Mohammed Anoop -- is linked to the Bengalurubased Hayaat restaurant financed by Bineesh, said a report by the agency.

Despite Covid, rain, ISRO launches earth observation, 9 other satellites

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @Bengaluru

AT the end of a 26-hour countdown, the Indian Space Research Organisation on Saturday launched an earth observation satellite (EOS-1) into the intended circular orbit of 575km with an inclination of 36.9 degrees.

The 51st Polar Satellite Launch Vehicle (PSLV-C49) lifted off from the first launch pad Satish Dhawan Space Centre (SDSC) SHAR at Sriharikota despite rainy weather owing to the retreating monsoon in that part of the east coast. The countdown was halted at T-15 minutes as a precaution against lightning that could damage electronic equipment of the satellite. However, with just minutes to go for the launch for 3.02pm, a new launch time of 3.12pm was announced.

Along with ISRO's EOS-01, the primary satellite, nine international customer satellites were launched - one from Lithuania (R2 for technology demonstration), four each from Luxembourg (Kleos (KSM-1A/1B/1C/1D for maritime application) and the USA (Lemur 1/2/3/4 for Multi Mission Remote Sensing) under a commercial agreement with New Space Indian Limited (NSIL), the commercial arm of ISRO.

Unlike previous launches, Saturday's event was rather austere, as scientists and technocrats from other ISRO centres were not present due to the limit placed on the number of people allowed to gather due to the pandemic.

However for the first time, the launch control centre data at SHAR was made available at all remote centres of ISRO.

The PSLV-C49 is the PSLV-DL with just two strap-ons along with the core motor unlike the regular PSLV-XL which has six strap on boosters. This is only the second time PSLV-DL is being used for a launch. The first was in January 2019.

The launch campaign had begun on 29 January 2020 and continued till March 12. The Launch Vehicle was then kept in preservation mode due the Covid crisis while the equipment bay was kept in a conditioned environment.

The vehicle was regularly inspected till the resumption of activities.

Quran import: Customs to grill Jaleel tomorrow

ENS @ Kochi

THE customs, which is probing the case related to the import of copies of the Quran by the UAE Consulate allegedly violating exceptions granted to diplomatic cargo, has issued a notice to Higher Education Minister K T Jaleel to appear before it for interrogation on Monday.

The customs probe had found that 250 packets, each containing 31 copies of Quran, were imported claiming it as diplomatic cargo. According to a customs official, the UAE Consulate had handed over 32 packets containing copies of the Quran to Jaleel, which were distributed in various parts of the state during Ramzan month.

Customs officials clarified that Jaleel has been summoned for giving his version regarding the incident.

"Goods brought as diplomatic cargo is for the sole use of the Consulate and diplomats. If the goods arrived in diplomatic cargo are distributed outside the consulate, then it is duty evasion. Those who receive such goods are part of duty evasion too," said the official.

Hyd floods: KCR hits out at Centre

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @Hyderabad

CHIEF Minister K Chandrasekhar Rao on Saturday came down heavily on the Centre for not providing funds required to take up flood relief operations in Hyderabad.

During a meeting at Pragathi Bhavan, when the Finance Department officials informed Rao that they did not receive any funds for flood relief work, he said, "It has been proved, once again, that the Centre makes empty promises and does not take any action. Despite heavy losses incurred by the State due to heavy rains and floods, the Centre has failed to release even a single rupee towards assistance for flood relief operations. Its attitude has been exposed."

The heavy rains in October had caused widespread damage in Hyderabad and massive crop loss across Telangana. Primary estimates put the loss due to the rains at ₹5,000 crore. Rao had written to Prime Minister Narendra Modi on October 15, seeking ₹1,350 crore as immediate Central financial assistance. A Central team had also visited the State to asses the damage.

HC quashes Central govt notification

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @Bengaluru

THE Karnataka High Court has quashed the Union government notification including city's RajaRajeswari Medical College and Hospital in the ambit of Dr MGR Educational and Research Institute (Deemed to be University), Chennai.

However, the court put a rider that the restoration should not affect the admission of students to the undergraduate and post-graduate medical courses hitherto done by Dr MGR Educational and Research Institute, post impugned notification. Allowing the petition filed by the state government, Justice Krishna S Dixit recently passed the order quashing the Centre's notification dated February 14, 2019.

The state government contended that its objection to including the college in the ambit of MGR Institute has not been considered by the Union government and UGC.

The judge directed the Union government and the Medical Council of India to take all steps required for restoring the position of the college, RGUHS and the Deemed to be University, within eight weeks.

The judge also dismissed the petition of Moogambigai Charitable and Educational Trust, which runs RajaRajeswari Medical College and Hospital, questioning the state government's communication dated May 16, 2019 directing the RGUHS not to disaffiliate the college.

Ex-ASI rescued from Chintamani streets

V VELAYUDHAM @Chikballapura

AN Assistant Sub-Inspector of police, who opted for the voluntary retirement scheme in 2011, had turned into a ragpicker on the streets Chintamani in Chikkaballapur district.

The ex-ASI, Madhusudhan Rao (61), who was found roaming the streets in unkempt clothes with a long beard, was rescued after some of his old friends from the department recognised him. When the matter reached local Superintendent of Police G K Mithun Kumar, he rehabilitated Rao and placed him at the Chintamani police station.

Mithun told TNSE that Rao was depressed and did not contact his son who works in the private sector in Bengaluru. He also did not reach out to his two daughters who are married and staying in Bengaluru. But he chose to live the life of a ragpicker and eked out a living by collecting and selling waste material.

Madhusudhan Rao

Mithun said that he took up the issue with Central Range Inspector General of Police Seemanth Kumar Singh, who in turn sent instructions to rehabilitate the former officer immediately.

Chintamani Town Inspector Anand and other police officers picked up Rao, who was sleeping on the roadside, took him to a salon for a haircut and a shave. He was also given a new set of clothes. During counselling, he told the officers that he was depressed as he had not got any money for the last one year. He had authorised his son to draw his pension, but it was found that the amount had remained undrawn. Rao told the officers that he went deeper into depression after his wife died.

Mithun said that Rao is the guest of Chintamani police and soon, a rented accommodation will be arranged. They will also look for a security guard's job for him, the SP added. The police also established contact with his son and daughters, who are in regular touch with him now.

Seemanth Kumar Singh said arrangements will be made to regularise Rao's pension and he will be given psychiatric treatment in Bengaluru.

Rao said that he was grateful to the police officers who gave him a new life.

AMERICAN DEMOCRACY: TRIAL BY TRUMPISM

"Baseless allegations of systematic deficiencies, notably by the incumbent president, including on election night, harm public trust in democratic institutions."

TYPICALLY one would associate such a scathing observation with one of the tin-pot regimes in Africa or totalitarian states in Europe. No. The scathing remarks were not about Alexander Lukashenko in Belarus. The remark by the International Election Observation Mission was about elections in the US and its President Donald J Trump.

The reputation of the oldest democracy is on trial by Trumpism. Four years into the presidency, Trump continues to have the capacity to shock the world. The post poll scene resembles a Barnum and Bailey circus show. On November 4 he tweeted, "I will be making a statement tonight. A big WIN!" and then minutes later tweeted, "We are up BIG, but they are trying to STEAL the Election" — accusations characterised by Republican Senator Adam Kinzinger characterised as "debunked misinformation".

THE THIRD EYE
SHANKKAR AIYAR
Author of The Gated Republic, Aadhaar: A Biometric History of India's 12 Digit Revolution, and Accidental India
shankkar.aiyar@gmail.com

The barrage of twitter-outrage continued. On Thursday evening, the 'leader of the free world' tweeted, "STOP THE COUNT" even as some Republicans warned that his comments were "dangerous" and "wrong" as the state is obliged to count every vote. By Thursday night, his campaign launched multiple lawsuits to stop counting of votes. In what has been described as classic intellectual inconsistency, the President wanted counting to continue in some states and not in others. The conduct of the president was, to use a coinage of his, unpresidented! He charged officials in the states of being corrupt, even of those where Republicans were in charge and toiling to make democracy happen. It didn't matter that these same votes were electing Republican Congressmen and Senators. His son Eric Trump, fuming at those he called Republican "sheep", retweeted conspiracy theories about ballot burning.

A vote in a democracy is about being able to speak, and must be counted to be heard. Trump first tried to defy tradition and established norms by trying to define a matrix of how voters should vote, or if you please how they should not be allowed to vote. Having failed to stop mail-in ballots and other instruments and policies devised to enable safe exercise of rights, Trump egged his coalition to constrain and define which voices would be heard.

Over 72 hours after polls as counting continued, confusion confounded clarity. The crux of the problem is the complex nature of the electoral process. Authority over conduct of elections is not centralised but diffused across states to protect the process from the whims and fancies of those in power. Aggravating the circumstance is the antiquated voting system.

Indians are baffled that the US does not adopt electronic voting machines aka EVMs for a smoother faster process. After all, in 2019, the Election Commission of India counted over 600 million votes polled to declare the mandate within the day. Fact is context matters. EVMs may help for in person voting. Millions of Americans voted early — and many of them chose to do so through absentee ballots and mail in voting. The unseemly spectacle does beg the question — why the US is living with an antiquated system. It is not as if online or electronic voting is alien to America. Companies routinely use online voting. The US Department of Labour allows use of remote electronic voting for elections in unions. Why technology has not been inducted is a question which now echoes across living rooms, social media and in television/radio studios.

The US registers roughly 300,000-plus patents every year. It has over 330 Nobel laureates. America has sent nine manned missions to the Moon, over two dozen successful missions to Mars and boasts of a US Space Force. Surely, its tech giants can get their fangs into this vexing issue and come up with solutions — in Cupertino, Mountain View or Menlo Park — for people to exercise their rights using electronics. Arguably, induction of technology and evolution of the process will follow sooner than later. The challenge bound to haunt America longer is divisiveness. Trumpism is now an embedded ideology and the vocabulary is here. The Republican National Committee with all the reservations is tip-toeing around Trump. He has after all polled nearly 70 million votes — he has not just sustained his base but got more black, Hispanic and even LGBTQ votes.

Digging in his heels for a fight, he tweeted on Friday, "Joe Biden should not wrongfully claim the office of the President. I could make that claim also. Legal proceedings are just now beginning!" The Biden campaign issued mailers calling for contributions. "Donald Trump is going to court to stop votes from being counted. We have assembled the largest election protection effort in history to fight back and need your help." Biden declared, 'The fight is not over'.

With over 125,000 daily COVID-19 cases, the economy on state stimulus and a society under repair, America desperately needs to come together. Voters have corralled off extreme elements and voted for what currently appears to be a divided government signalling the need for moderation and collaboration across the aisle. The majesty of the mandate holds lessons for the politicos of America.

TRUMP'S HEAVY FOOTPRINTS ON HISTORY

POINT OF VIEW
T J S GEORGE

FOR America's sake, and for the world's sake, it was important that Donald Trump should not win a second term as President. That he came close to it points to the power of a disturbing element in American life — racism. Ultimately, racism counts in America. In all white countries, there are blacks. But American blacks represent something distinctly American. This relates to the prominent role the blacks played as slaves in American history. Following the civil war during the presidency of the great man, Abraham Lincoln, nearly 4 million slaves were freed.

Donald Trump is not just an American, he is a white American. This was so when he was just a real-estate businessman making millions in New York. At one point, the Justice Department filed charges alleging racial bias in the Trump family's company. Trump, of course, dismissed the charge as "ridiculous". In the casino the Trumps ran in Atlantic City, it was standing practice that whenever Trump made an appearance, the bosses in charge would order all black people off the floor.

It is an accepted fact that the coastal states of America are relatively liberal, while the south and the hinterland are conservative enough to be racist. This explains Trump sweeping the south and the interior. Clearly, a substantial chunk of American citizens are influenced by the hangover of the days when racism was part of life. Slavery was a legally approved practice from the day the United States was founded because the influential plantation owners had institutionalised the import of Africans as slave labour.

There was a larger cultural mindset that facilitated the import of African slaves. This was the Anglo-Saxon insistence that non-Protestants were not their equals. Thus Irish, Italian, Polish and other "alien" non-Protestants were treated as outcasts. Hispanics, Jews and Middle Easterners like Arabs and Iranians were never recognised as full-fledged Americans. The so-called Native Americans were subjected to organised genocide. Those who still survived were confined to internment camps made especially for them. Racism marked the contours of American history.

Trump is a proud inheritor of that history. It is no surprise that he helped coin that peculiar American phrase, "birther movement". It was the birth of Barrack Obama that was referred to. Trump was the initiator of the theory that Obama was not born in America. That was the only way he could face a popular leader like Obama. Trump's line proved a lie when Obama released his birth certificate and said, "We have no time for this kind of silliness." The phrase stuck. Birtherism now means the theory that anyone not born in America, and not white, is not a real American.

Seen from any angle, a racist approach of that kind was not welcome to many Americans. Trump tried to wriggle out of the mess by saying that he was only talking about the need to crack down on forged birth certificates, a policy followed by Obama and George Bush. No one bought that line, of course. People knew that Trump went to the extent of being nasty in implementing his discriminatory policies. According to the Washington Post, a growing number of Latino citizens in Texas are having their citizenship questioned and being denied passports. A member of the Council on Foreign Relations said: "Birtherism is now federal policy. Anyone who is not white is suspected of not being a real American."

> Trump has no notion of China and what it means. An American leadership that cannot understand China and Asia is a leadership doomed to fail. The question is whether Trumpism will drag Americans down

That Trump has gone so openly birtherist and that half of Americans approve of it bode ill for America and the world. Don't fail to note that they gave such a high-level of support to him when a decent alternative was available in the persona of Joe Biden. Active in politics and campaigning vigorously, Biden is a more weighty opponent than John McCain was to Obama in 2008. It seems that the perspectives of American voters have changed. Values and ambitions have changed, for the worse.

Is the world facing a new America? After the collapse of the Soviet Union, America had become the sole superpower. Then China rose to challenge it. Trump has no notion of China and what it means. An American leadership that cannot understand China and Asia is a leadership doomed to fail. The question is whether Trumpism will drag Americans down. If that happens, it would be a tragedy. It is a tragedy that we had a world leader who could not see beyond him and his twisted philosophy. In real terms, it symbolised the fall of America.

HARROWING EVENTS: NEED FOR ACTION

OPINION
V SUDHISH PAI
Advocate and expert on constitutional law
vsudhishpai@gmail.com

RECENT events have been harrowing — a Chief Minister writing to the CJI making serious allegations against the senior most judge of the Supreme Court. We are not concerned with persons or the truth or otherwise of the allegations or the manner of making them, but with issues of great moment to our institutions and constitutional democracy.

Institutions are vital. Their working is influenced and determined by those who man them. The seriousness of the allegations and the person against whom they are made add to the gravity of the situation. More outrageous is the order passed by the High Court injuncting further investigation and placing an embargo on the media. This goes against the grain of a constitutional state. Unfortunately, that continues though it has no moral or legal support. It takes time for the State's appeal in the Supreme Court to be listed. These events are all bizarre. We find all institutions wanting. The winds of change blow from the Steppes, they are chilly winds.

The argument about the letter violating the separation of powers or that it is contempt is insubstantial. What the Constitution forbids is discussion in the legislature with respect to the conduct of a judge of the superior judiciary in the discharge of his duties. What is alleged does not relate to the judge's duties. These are matters that should be susceptible of any discussion anywhere. There is no, and indeed there cannot be any, embargo on the people discussing anything. No constitutional functionary including a judge is above the law and the keen scrutiny of the general public — the ultimate sovereign.

In AM Bhattacharjee's case, the Supreme Court has prescribed self-regulation through in-house procedure: the appropriate course is to approach the Chief Justice when there are doubts about a judge based on authentic and acceptable material. Hence, the letter to the CJI is not impermissible, but appropriate. Making that public cannot be condemned. When 'justice' itself is not a cloistered virtue and is to suffer the scrutiny and comments of ordinary men, how can 'justices' be immune from such scrutiny? The complaint cannot be brushed aside on the score that the CM faced with cases against him which are directed to be speeded up, has resorted to this. The cases against corrupt politicians need to be speeded up and pursued. That is a different issue.

The complaint needs to be looked into. This is not to suggest that there is truth in the allegations. But judges like Caesar's wife should be above board — exemplary and seen to be so. "If the Supreme Court quails or fails, the nation, in the short run or long run, travails."

The question incidentally arises whether seniority should be a criterion for appointment of CJI or for elevation to the Supreme Court. It is difficult to justify the composition of the Court on geographical lines or simply as an amalgam of various interests or a Court of High Court Chief Justices. Going by such criteria may be denying the Court the best available talent. The Law Commission had recommended that the Supreme Court must consist of Judges who taken as a body are, as lawyers and men of vision, superior to the body of Judges manning the High Courts and that a convention be established that the appointment as the Chief Justice rests on special considerations of ability and experience as a competent administrator. Fears have been voiced that this could be misused. But the fear of perversion is no test of power. Every institution has been guilty of misusing powers conferred on it or appropriated by it. That cannot be an alibi for resisting any reform.

> In AM Bhattacharjee's case, the Supreme Court has prescribed self-regulation through in-house procedure: the appropriate course is to approach the Chief Justice when there are doubts about a judge based on authentic and acceptable material. Hence, the letter to the CJI is not impermissible, but appropriate

While the Constitution is silent about who is to be appointed CJI, the Memorandum of Procedure states that it should be the senior most judge of the Supreme Court considered fit to hold the office. This is an idea of wide import. In practice, the determination is not really consideration of whether the senior most judge is fit to hold office as CJI, but that he is not unfit for that. Different variables of fitness are never put in the scales. There is only a determination that he is not unfit which means that hardly anyone would miss because he would pass the minimum eligibility. There is no assessment of leadership, integrity or equipment. This is no reflection on any past, present or future CJIs. How and by whom it is to be assessed is quite another matter not susceptible to any straight and easy answer.

Most of the troubles can be traced to the inadequacies of the system of judicial appointments. We have to pay heed to Macaulay's admonition: Reform that you may preserve. We are also rudely reminded of Dr Ambedkar's remarks, "... if things go wrong under the new Constitution, the reason will not be that we had a bad Constitution. What we will have to say is that man was vile."

The trouble is that we don't even think or talk about all this. It is time to bestow serious thought on these problems. Silence or apathy is unwholesome for our polity. Every section of the populace is duty bound to be concerned about our institutions and those who man them and debate these issues. That is not interfering with judicial independence. It would be strengthening the judiciary whose independence is not an end in itself but 'only an inset in the larger picture of the nation's free, forward march'.

Kodiyeri should step down

Kerala CM Pinarayi Vijayan is smartly feigning to be disinterested in the ED's arrest of Bineesh Kodiyery, son of Kerala's CPM chief Kodiyeri Balakrishnan, going by the former's press briefings. In fact, the CPM is inwardly outraged at the development as evident from the way the police and Child Rights Commission moved against the ED within minutes of complaint by Bineesh's relatives. In the process, the CPM has created an impression that it is with Bineesh. Bineesh, also a CPM follower, has been allegedly involved in drug trafficking and gross tax evasion for years now. Kodiyeri cannot distance himself from his son's deep moral turpitude.

Say no to firecrackers

It is excellent that six states — Rajastan, Maharastra, Karnataka, West Bengal, Odisha, Delhi — banned crackers on Diwali. Why only six states? All states should do the same. Crackers are polluting. Also pollution levels increase, leading to weather catastrophes. Why not spend time and money productively and happily? In fact, all festivals be celebrated in an eco-friendly manner.

Trump and his tantrums

It seems US President Trump is taking a leaf out of our two main political parties —the BJP and the Congress — who often raise questions on EVM depending on where they sit in Parliament. Some regional parties have also joined the bandwagon depending on the poll outcome. The BJP after two consecutive defeats in general elections questioned the EVM, came out a handbook to prove their point and even demanded going back to ballot paper. The Congress did the same. Never in the history of the US anyone in the past questioned the people's verdict. Trump should gracefully wait for the final count to over. He and his party has enough numbers to be a strong opponent of Joe Bidden.

Leveraging power of internet

Internet education has many advantages, with many disadvantages of crowded classrooms getting nullified. If required, class can be recorded and re-looked into. Every student can see the board-notes and hear with clarity. Doubts of students can be clarified by teachers as well while ensuring social distancing. On the long run, internet education becomes inexpensive. Students spending time on gadgets is a separate matter. They can chat with friends and meet them on evenings or Sundays. Let the government and the society provide smart phones to students who cannot afford it.

Tale of two countries

According to British tabloid 'The Daily Mirror', UK Prime Minister Boris Johnson is planning to resign after six months as he finds the salary too low in comparison to his previous occupation. Johnson earns approximately 1,50,400 Pounds, which is reportedly not sufficient for his survival. He is said to be 'jealous' of his predecessor Theresa May, whose earnings have gone up substantially after she quit as the PM last year. Have we ever heard of an Indian leader giving up his political career due to poor earnings? In fact, people enter politics purely because it is the most lucrative profession. When there was a report that this is the last election of Bihar CM Nitish Kumar, his party promptly came out with a clarification that there was no retirement for their leader and that he would stay in politics "as long as the public wants."

CDS General Bipin Rawat's assessment of the situation across the LAC and his warning on the possibility of a larger conflict with China is ominous. Thankfully the Army has never been found wanting when it comes to stopping aggressors in their tracks. PM offers youth 'ease of doing biz', seeks 'ease of living' for the poor

Exhorts graduating IIT-Delhi students to innovate and find solutions to country's problems

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ New Delhi

URGING the graduating students in Indian Institute of Technology-Delhi to contribute to the government's Atmanirbhar Bharat campaign, Prime Minister Narendra Modi on Saturday said the country will ensure 'ease of doing business' for its youth while they should work for providing 'ease of living' to people, particularly the poorest of the poor, through innovations.

"India is fully committed to give its youth ease of doing business so that the youth through their innovation can bring about a change in the lives of crores of people of the country," the PM said, addressing the 51st annual convocation of the institute through video-conferencing.

He said technology and innovation would play a major role in times to come. "The post-Covid world is going to be very different and technology has to play a major role in it," said the PM. "Covid-19 has changed the way things are conducted today. Virtual and augmented reality are becoming the working reality...it has taught us that while globalisation is important, self-reliance is equally important."

Modi also urged the techies to work towards finding solutions to the country's existing problems. "Indians have immense faith in the need for technology... There are immense possibilities for you in the country and also there are immense challenges confronting the country for which you can give solutions."

"A lot of work can be done in areas such as disaster management, maintaining the ground-water level, solar power generation, telemedicine and big data analysis."

The PM also asked the students to focus on quality, never compromise, and make their innovations work at a mass scale. "Your work will give global recognition to our products. Your efforts will lead to swifter recognition of Indian products," Modi told the students, calling them the best brand ambassadors of Brand India.

Cong MPs tell Shah Pak may fish in Punjab troubled waters

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ New Delhi

IN the backdrop of increasing tensions between Punjab and the Union government over farm laws and disruption in train services, Congress MPs from the state met Union Home Minister Amit Shah on Saturday, discussing ways to de-escalate tensions and share their concerns over the possibility of Pakistan exploiting the rift to foment trouble in the border state.

Railway Minister Piyush Goyal also attended the meeting. After the meeting, Congress MP Jasbir Singh Gill said they were hopeful that the train services on the affected routes will resume soon.

Several MPs told the home minister that the tension in the region due to non-operation of goods trains and farmers' agitation can be used by the ISI.

"When the situation between the Centre and any state becomes tense, bad elements like Pakistan's ISI take advantage of it and can mislead youngsters. Punjab is a peaceful state and should remain so," Gurjeet Singh Aujla said. He added that Shah told them that he was mindful of the situation and was aware of tPakistan's intention regarding Punjab.

"Punjab is a border state and there could be a serious problem if things aren't resolved soon. Home Minister Shah assured us that he is taking stock of Punjab and we will resolve the issues soon," Aujla said.

Gill said the railways minister asked them to get the tracks free of the protesting farmer and the minister was informed that tracks had been vacated.

"We requested that issues like rail should be looked at priority as we are on verge of a blackout. There will be an interruption in the water supply. Emergency services are already hit. After a technical report on the health of the tracks come, the rail services will be resumed," he said.

MPs Preneet Kaur, Manish Tewari, Choudhary Santokh Singh, Amar Singh, Ravneet Singh and Mohammad Sadique also attended the meeting.

Sources in the government said there was a possibility of formation of a coordination committee comprising representatives from the central and Punjab governments for holding discussions with the agitating farmers.

The suspension of train services has led to a shortage of supplies. Train services have remained suspended since September 24 when farmer groups organised protests on tracks.

'BJP has to blame itself for failing to win over Sikhs'

HARPREET BAJWA @ Chandigarh

THE Sikh-centric politics of Punjab appears to have given the BJP-led NDA a complete miss. The Hindutva party had enjoyed an uninterrupted stay in power for 10 years before 2017 thanks to its alliance with the SAD. After the Akalis walked out recently, the BJP with only two members in the 117-member Assembly has itself to blame for almost nil presence in the important border state, say analysts.

The popular perception is that the NDA government has failed to win over the Sikh community, largely the state peasantry.

This could be politically very dangerous for a national party that has already antagonised a vast section of Muslims across the country. Keeping a vibrant community of a border state annoyed for long can lead to serious repercussions, warn political experts.

The Sikhs comprise nearly 2% of India's population, but being an enterprising community, hold influence far and wide. Perhaps this has been the reason why the Congress has always given due representation to the Sikhs. Despite the 1984 riots and traumatic years of terrorism in Punjab, the Congress still holds influence over a substantial section of the community.

"The BJP, even after years of alliance with the Akalis, has not been able to open the communication channels with the community at large," says Prof Jagroop Singh Sekhon, a political analyst.

> The Sikhs are nationalists, which goes with BJP agenda. But a flawed understanding has led the BJP to antagonize the community on issue or the other
> — Jagroop Singh Sekhon

He says the new farm laws have further alienated the community from the BJP. "Despite some good points, the NDA has failed to convince Punjab farmers that the new laws would open up new vistas of opportunities for them," says Sekhon.

Punjab could be a small state sending only 13 MPs to the Lok Sabha. But its status as a border state holding the country's wheat bowl gives it a unique place in terms of strategic and geographic significance, he said.

"Most Sikh voters believe the BJP has piggybacked the Akalis, which has led to a steady erosion of its influence in the state year after year. The BJP doesn't have a Sikh leader tall enough to claim to be the representative of the community in a state which has 58% Sikh population," says Sekhon.

"On the other hand, the Congress has always given representation to the Sikhs in the party at the state and national levels. It has chosen Sikhs as ambassadors, governors and high commissioners, giving the community a feeling of inclusiveness," says Prof Kuldeep Singh, a political commentator.

The BJP too has taken many pro-Sikh decisions, including setting up an SIT on 1984 riots, opening the Kartarpur Corridor, and observance of 550th Guru Nanak Gurpurab celebrations. But it has failed to connect with the community," says Prof Singh. "The need of the hour for the BJP is to bring the ground-level leaders from Punjab to the national party structure."

Govt support sought for Covid vaccine that can stay at room temperature

SUMI SUKANYA DUTTA @ New Delhi

RESEARCHERS associated with the development of a Covid-19 vaccine that can stay intact at 37 degrees C for four weeks have sought the Centre's support for taking the project forward after early trials in animals have shown that it generates strong, protective, immune responses.

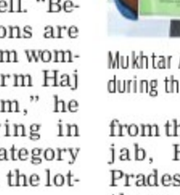
The vaccine candidate that generates neutralizing antibodies has been developed by scientists associated with the Indian Institute of Sciences, Bengaluru, and Mynvax, a start-up based in the campus.

Researchers from the Translational Health Science and Technology Institute, Faridabad, Indian Institute of Science Education and Research Thiruvananthapuram and Jawaharlal Nehru Centre for Advanced Scientific Research, Bengaluru, have also collaborated for the project.

"We have requested about ₹8 crore support from the Centre for process development, preclinical and toxicity studies. An additional ₹8 crore would be required for GMP manufacture and to carry out a Phase 1 trial," said Raghavan Varadrajan, lead scientist associated with the project.

He also pointed out that the development of the potential candidate could be crucial as it does not require a cold chain for storage and if successful in human trials would be far easier for distribution than vaccines currently in trial.

A peer-reviewed paper published on early trials of the vaccine candidate in guinea pigs says virtually all Covid vaccines currently in testing are stored in a refrigerated/frozen state prior to use, which is a "major impediment to deployment in resource-poor settings".



The development comes even as the government has been carrying out an exercise to map out cold chain storage facilities to ensure the Covid-19 vaccine, once available, is delivered quickly across the country. A national expert group on Covid-19 vaccine had recently held discussions with stakeholders in pharma and other sectors to identify cold storages or fridges at the taluka level that can stock and distribute the vaccine.

EXPRESS NEW SERVICE @ New Delhi

THE central government on Saturday launched the online application process for Haj 2021 which, because of Covid-19, would be managed with multiple changes. A Covid-negative certificate is a must for people desirous to go on the pilgrimage.

Due to the pandemic, embarkation points for next year's Haj have been reduced from 21 to 10 boarding points on the basis of suggestions given by Air India and other agencies, the government announced. There may be changes in age criteria for performing Haj as the elderlies are the most vulnerable to this deceased, it added.

Haj pilgrims will have to submit Covid-19 negative RT-PCR test report 72 hours prior to their journey to Saudi Arabia in 2021, Union minority affairs minister Mukhtar Abbas Naqvi said on Saturday.

After holding a meeting with the Haj Committee and other stakeholders, the minister also announced that December 10 is the last date for submitting applications for the pilgrimage. The applicants can apply online, offline or through Haj mobile application as well.

Naqvi said applications filled for Haj 2020 by women "without mehram (male companion)" category would be valid for Haj 2021 as well. "Besides, new applications are also being accepted from women who want to perform Haj 2021 without mehram," he said. Women applying in "without mehram" category will be exempted from the lottery system.

The ten boarding spots are Ahmedabad, Bengaluru, Cochin, Delhi, Guwahati, Hyderabad, Kolkata, Lucknow, Mumbai and Srinagar.

Only 15.5% train coaches used as Covid wards even as ₹45 cr spent

KUMAR VIKRAM @ New Delhi

AS the Covid-19 raged during the summer months, the government spent crores of rupees to convert more than 5,000 non-air conditioned railway coaches into quarantine centres in anticipation of a surge in cases that would put pressure on the existing health infrastructure.

But only 813, or about 15.5%, of these coaches were used until mid-September even as the government spent nearly ₹45 crore for the purpose, an RTI application filed by this newspaper has revealed.

The conversion was carried out following an order dated March 31. On an average, ₹90,000 was spent on converting the coaches into isolation wards. Sources said patients were reluctant to shift to these coaches due to extreme heat and this was one of the main reasons for subdued demand.

The maximum expenditure, ₹3.55 crore, was incurred by the Southwestern railway for converting 320 coaches into isolation centres. This was followed by Eastern Railway, with ₹1.86 crore for converting 171 coaches, and the North-Eastern Railway, that spent ₹1.49 crore to convert 217 coaches. The Southern Railways created the maximum number of coaches, 573, followed by Northern (540) and Central (482).

BOMBAY HIGH COURT RESERVES VERDICT ON ARNAB'S BAIL PLEA

SUDHIR SURYAWANSHI @ Mumbai

REPUBLIC TV Editor-in-Chief Arnab Goswami, arrested in an abetment of suicide case on November 4, failed to get immediate relief from the Bombay High Court on Saturday.

After a marathon hearing of over six hours, a division bench of Justices S S Shinde and M S Karnik reserved its order on his interim bail plea, but said his lawyers could approcah the sessions court for regular bail in the meantime.

Goswami's lawyer Harish Salve sought his release as "ad-interim relief" but the HC bench expressed inability to do so. "We will pass the order at the earliest," it said.

"The pendency of this matter does not preclude you (Goswami) or the other accused (Feroze Shaikh and Nitish Sarda) from approaching the concerned lower court seeking regular bail," the court said. If a bail plea is filed, then the sessions court shall decide it within four days, it said.

The petitions also sought a stay on the investigation and quashing of the FIR. The court on Saturday only heard arguments on interim bail and said it would hear the plea on quashing of the FIR on December 10, after Diwali vacation.

The sessions court at Alibaug in Raigad will hear on November 9 the police's plea challenging a magistrate's order which denied them the custody of Goswami in the case of abetment of suicide of architect Anvay Naik and his mother in 2018.

The Chief Judicial Magistrate had on November 4 sent Goswami and the others in judicial remand till November 18, saying no custodial interrogation was needed.

RAJESH KUMAR THAKUR & MUKESH RANJAN @ Patna/Muzzaffarpur

Sipping tea at a roadside stall in Nathnagar, Muzaffarpur, Ram Charan Yadav was of the view that under chief minister Nitish Kumar, Bihar has seen unprecedented development. He claimed that not only him but people of all castes, Yadavs included, would vote for Nitish this time.

"At 65, I have seen days when power used to come only for a few minutes. Now it is regular. There were no roads or water but now there is water supply at home. What else do we need, Nitish Kumar is doing his best to change the face of the state and we must support him," Yadav said. With the third and last phase of the polling over on Saturday, the die has been cast on the Bihar elections. All the rivals can now do the math on the likely outcome at leisure.

But is caste no longer a factor in the elections, as the elderly Yadav claimed? Traditionally, caste has always played a dominant role in the elections. Not surprisingly, it is said that the people of Bihar don't cast their vote, they vote their caste.

But the striking feature of this campaign was the emergence of issues, among them development, unemployment, corruption and jungle raj. It is not that caste been cast aside totally. But there is a widespread feeling that voting this time will not take place solely on caste considerations.

"It cannot be denied that caste is not an issue in Bihar, but at the same time the development brought by Nitish Kumar is also an issue in these polls," said Raman Jha, a businessman at Kamtaul village of Muzaffarpur.

Jha is joined by Manoj Kumar, 35, of Hajipur and Shashank Kumar Yadav, 30, of Gaya. While Kumar is a Kurmi, Nitish's caste, Shashank is a Yadav. Both claimed to have not voted along caste lines but on issues such as development and employment.

Given this mood, many political parties rose above caste and community even during the distribution of election tickets. The Rashtriya Janata Dal, a champion of caste and mandal politics, effected the biggest change, giving wider representation to candidates of other castes. Of the 144 candidates it has fielded this time, only 58, or 40%, are Yadavs. In 2015, the party had contested 101 seats and gave tickets to 65 Yadavs, or 64%. As for Muslim candidates, the RJD has fielded 17 this time, down from 21 in the last elections.

Muslims and Yadavs have always taken the lion's share of the RJD's tickets as they constitute the party's main vote bank. The change this time is largely because of its young leader, Tejashwi Yadav, who has made Nitish his singular target of attack. The change is also visible in the Janata Dal (United), which brought in the concept of mahadalits, or extremely backward classes. While it has fielded 27 EBCs, the party has also given tickets to 21 upper castes. The JD-U also has only six Kurmi, Nitish's caste, candidates this time, down from 20 in the last election.

TMC offers help to tribal family that met Amit Shah

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Kolkata

TWO days after Union Home minister Amit Shah had lunch at the house of a tribal family in Bankura, local Trinamool Congress leaders met the family and offered them help. A local TMC leader went to the house of Bibhishan Hansda at Chaturdihi village, spent half-an-hour and offered help for his teenage daughter, who is a diabetic patient and a student of Class-XI.

TMC leaders said winning the heart of tribal electorates in Junglemahal is crucial ahead of 2021 Assembly elections and the party will leave no stone unturned. ''Hansda's family is in distress. Amit Shah visited their house and had lunch there but did not offer any help for the family. He did not announce any financial package for the welfare of the scheduled tribe community,'' said a TMC leader.

The TMC received a massive blow in last year's general elections in Junglemahal as BJP bagged all five Lok Sabha seats from the region.

BJP state president Dilip Ghosh said TMC's trick of visiting Hansda's house will not work.

"The tribal people of Junglemahal drove out the ruling party in last year's elections. The poor tribe rejected the TMC because of corruption among its satraps," he said.

A day after Shah's two-day Bengal visit, the party's state leadership convened a meeting with its morcha functionaries. Shah also met those who defected from other political parties on Friday.

"Shahji wanted to meet some of them personally when many others came on their own to meet him. He directed us to involve all of those who joined the BJP from other organisations in the party's regular affairs," said Ghosh.

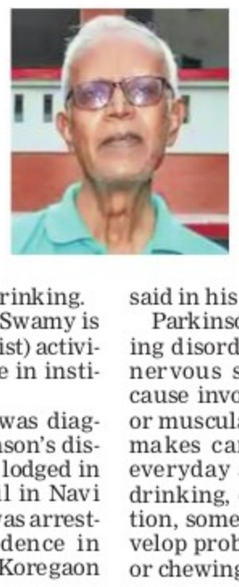
Many leaders who defected to the BJP from TMC and CPI(M) alleged on several occasions that they had been sidelined by the saffron camp's leaders. TMC MP Manirul Islam from Labhpur, Birbhum, visited the party headquarters on Saturday and he was asked to get involved in regular activities in his area. Party workers have been directed to launch campaigns to highlight the government's failure to curb crime against women.

NIA seeks 20 days to reply to Stan Swamy's plea for sipper, straw

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Mumbai

THE National Investigation Agency has sought 20 days to respond to Father Stan Swamy's application before a special court seeking a straw and sipper in prison to drink water, as he cannot hold a glass because of Parkinson's disease.

Jesuit priest Stan Swamy, 83, is a tribal rights activist who was arrested last month over his alleged involvement in the Bhima-Koregaon case. He moved the special court in Mumbai seeking permission to use a straw and sipper cup while drinking.



The NIA claims Swamy is linked to CPI (Maoist) activities and had a role in instigating violence.

Father Swamy was diagnosed with Parkinson's disease and has been lodged in central Taloja Jail in Navi Mumbai after he was arrested from his residence in Ranchi in Bhima Koregaon case on October 8. He is currently in a prison hospital.

Earlier his request for bail on medical grounds was rejected by special judge Dinesh E Kothalikar on October 22.

He applied for medical bail on the grounds that he has been suffering from Parkinson's and that he has almost lost his hearing.

"I cannot hold a glass as my hands are unsteady due to Parkinson's," Swamy, who has been at the Taloja Central Jail for nearly a month and is currently in the prison hospital, said in his application.

Parkinson's is a debilitating disorder of the central nervous system that can cause involuntary tremors, or muscular spasms, which makes carrying out even everyday actions, such as drinking, difficult. In addition, some patients also develop problems swallowing or chewing.

Assam-Mizoram border tension escalates as school attacked

PRASANTA MAZUMDAR @ Guwahati

A school on the Assam-Mizoram border was blown up, allegedly by the miscreants from Mizoram on Friday night.

The attack, carried out on the government-run Upper Painom LP School in Assam's Cachar district, comes amidst a bitter border dispute between the two states. This is the second such attack by miscreants on a Cachar school.

Officials of Cachar's civil administration and the police rushed to the site on Saturday morning to take stock of the situation. The Assam government claimed the miscreants had come from Mizoram.

"We are making all efforts to normalise the situation but the miscreants from Mizoram triggered a blast at the school in a forest area. Given the situation, we are strengthening our forces to avoid such incidents in future," Assam's Home Secretary GD Tripathi told this newspaper.

He said the miscreants sometimes come from across interstate border to carry out such attacks on Assam schools that are located in forests. "We have to suitably tighten our security," Tripathi said.

As the standoff continues, Central forces are being deployed to the disputed sites of the border in both states. Tripathi said Assam had already made the deployment of Sashastra Seema Bal personnel.

"We are also in touch with the Mizoram government and the Central government towards diffusing the tension," he added. Mizoram Chief Secretary Lalnunmawia Chuaungo said the state government was monitoring the situation.

"Things should be okay. We are having our internal meeting today (Saturday). The Central forces are at our disposal and the process of their deployment is on. They just arrived," he said. Mizoram is deploying personnel of the Border Security Force. The dispute flared up last month when at least eight people from both sides were injured and several houses and roadside shops torched.

He said all Covid-19 protocols were strictly being followed during voting. Constituencies such as Lilong and Wangjing-Tentha in Thoubal, Saitu in Kangpokpi and Wangoi in Imphal West districts went to the by-polls.

Cong set for round-II of revamp before Rahul takes over in 2021

RICHA SHARMA @ New Delhi

AHEAD of the election of a new party chief, the Congress is set for another major organizational revamp soon before Rahul Gandhi takes over reins of the party early next year.

Party sources said the changes are a move to bring in young and active party members at various posts and departments in the party

The reshuffle will include AICC secretary-level functionaries, heads of some departments and cells and state incharges and chiefs. In September, a major reshuffle was carried out with changes in the CWC and at general secretary level.

"The process for the second round of reshuffle started early October and finally it is expected to be announced this month. The names will be sent to Rahul Gandhi for the final approval," said a senior party leader. There are 56 AICC secretaries and around half of them are likely to be dropped and some new faces are expected to be in. "A majority of secretaries likely to be dropped are those who have remained inactive," said a party source.

Also expected are changes in heads of various departments and cells, which are either vacant or lying vacant for quite some time. For instance, the party's communication department may to get a new chief after Randeep Singh Surjewala was appointed as general secretary in-charge for Karnataka.

Similarly, All India Kisan Congress chief Nana Patole had quit as chairman after the 2019 polls. Though the party held countrywide protests against three farm laws, the party's farmers' wing doesn't have a chief. The party's S/C cell doesn't have a head for over a year and a half after Nitin Raut quit. Like Patole, he had won tthe Maharashtra polls and is now a minister.

Caste not a big factor this time

India Today-Axis My India poll showed 44 per cent of respondents prefer Tejashwi Yadav as the next chief minister, while 35 per cent would like to give another chance to Nitish Kumar. It projected 44 per cent vote share for the RJD-led alliance and 39 per cent for the NDA.

According to political observers, the exit poll projections show caste was not a big factor in the elections as voters were concerned about economic and development issues.

"Thanks to the corona-induced lockdown, the factor this time has become livelihood other than caste. The parties have fielded candidates from all castes and that's a good sign," said Meera Singh, an educationist from Patna.

Pakistani troops shell villages, forward posts in Poonch, Kathua

PTI @ Jammu

PAKISTANI troops resorted to unprovoked firing and shelling on forward posts and villages along the Line of Control (LoC) and the International Border (IB) in Jammu and Kashmir's Poonch and Kathua districts in violation of the ceasefire, officials said on Saturday.

Mortar shelling in the Mankote sector along the LoC in Poonch started around 2.30 am, while the cross-border firing along the IB in the Hiranagar sector continued throughout the night, the officials said. They said there was no report of any casualty or damage on the Indian side.

"At about 2:30 am, Pakistan initiated unprovoked ceasefire violation by firing with small arms and shelling mortars along the LoC in Mankote sector. Army retaliated befittingly,' a defence spokesman said.

The officials said the firing and shelling between the two sides stopped around 4 am.

akistani Rangers started the firing on border outposts in Karol Krishna, Satpal and Gurnam around 10 pm on Friday, prompting strong retaliation by the Border Security Force personnel guarding the border, the officials said.

The exchange of fire between the two sides continued till 5.10 am, they said, adding the Pakistani firing caused panic among the border residents who were forced to spend the night in underground bunkers.

Farooq Abdullah-led Gupkar alliance to jointly contest Council elections

FAYAZ WANI @ Srinagar

THE People's Alliance for Gupkar Declaration (PAGD), an amalgam of seven parties fighting for the restoration of Article 370, on Saturday decided to jointly contest the first-ever District Development Council (DDC) polls in Jammu and Kashmir, beginning December 1.

The Congress has also decided to join the fray to stop "BJP's divisive politics".

PAGD leaders met at the residence of National Conference president and former CM Farooq Abdullah in Jammu on Saturday and discussed whether to contest the DDC polls.

"One point of today's meeting was the upcoming DDC elections. It was unanimously decided that we will fight these elections jointly despite the abruptness of the timing," PAGD spokesman Sajjad Lone told the media.

He said the suddenness of the government decision led the PAGD leaders to believe that the "sacred space in democracy should not be allowed to be invaded by divisive forces."

"We won't allow this space for invaders. We will keep it for the future generations. We are all going to fight it together."

Sajjad, who was a minister from the Bharatiya Janata Party quota in BJP-PDP coalition government from 2015 to 2018, said the PAGD chairman Farooq Abdullah would release the names of all candidates.

The PAGD leaders during their first visit to Jammu held meetings with various delegations including leaders of political parties, civil society members, Gujjar and Bakerwal, Scheduled Caste and Other Backward Caste, Sikhs, Kashmiri Pandits, Dalits, Gaddi and Sippi community and transporters.

More than 34,000 B Tech seats remain vacant

More than half of West Bengal's 34,000 BTech seats have remained vacant after the completion of staggered centralised e-counselling which started on August 12 and ended on October 31. Sources in the higher education department of the state said that close to 19,000 seats are still vacant at the end of three-phased centralised counselling which was conducted by the state's joint entrance examination board earlier. "The number of empty seats dashed the board officials expectation that only a few BTech seats will remain vacant this year because most of aspirants will prefer to study in colleges in Bengal, instead of moving to other states amid Covid-19 pandemic," said an official of the West Bengal higher education department.

Election far from over, says Trump

President refuses to accept Biden's victory, promises to continue with legal challenges

WASHINGTON

Democrat Joe Biden has won the White House, US media said Saturday, defeating Donald Trump and ending a presidency that convulsed American politics, shocked the world and left the United States more divided than at any time in decades.

CBS, NBC and CNN news networks announced the result just before 11:30 am (1630 GMT) as an insurmountable lead in Pennsylvania took Biden, 77, over the top in the state-by-state count that decides the presidency.

"America, I'm honored that you have chosen me to lead our great country," Biden said in a statement.

"The work ahead of us will be hard, but I promise you this: I will be a president for all Americans - whether you voted for me or not. I will keep the faith that you have placed in me."

Trump quickly responded to the announcement by accusing Biden of falsely declaring himself the next president.

"We all know why Joe Biden is rushing to falsely pose as the winner, and why his media allies are trying so hard to help him: they don't want the truth to be exposed," Trump said in a statement.

"The simple fact is this election is far from over."

For Biden, who got more than 74 million votes, a record, the triumph after a tense contest conducted during a global coronavirus pandemic was the crowning achievement of his half century in US politics, including eight years as deputy to the first Black US president Barack Obama.

> Beginning Monday, our campaign will start prosecuting our case in court to ensure election laws are fully upheld and the rightful winner is seated... The simple fact is this election is far from over. Joe Biden has not been certified as the winner of any states, let alone any of the highly contested states headed for mandatory recounts, or states where our campaign has valid and legitimate legal challenges that could determine the ultimate victor
> Donald Trump in a statement

The result condemned 74-year-old Trump -- who made frantic attempts to claim fraud and stop the vote count – to becoming the first one-term president since George H. W. Bush at the start of the 1990s.

The Republican, whose marathon press conferences, tweeting and raucous campaign rallies have made him a perpetual, noisy presence at home and abroad over the last four years, had no immediate reaction.

But ever since the night after Tuesday's election, when he prematurely claimed victory, Trump has been inhabiting a world increasingly disconnected from the reality of his approaching downfall.

Earlier Saturday, he left the White House for the first time since Election Day to play golf, tweeting: "I WON THIS ELECTION, BY A LOT!"

And in an extraordinary White House address to the nation on Thursday -- with Biden's lead in the partial results already consolidating rapidly -- he claimed "they are trying to steal the election."

Despite Trump's protests, the returns from vote counting offices around the country kept coming all week, with no credible reports of irregularities.

And when US television networks declared that Biden had taken an insurmountable lead in Pennsylvania, that put the Democrat over the magic number of 270 electoral college votes. Trump had no way to win the election. The biggest ever turnout of voters -- some 160 million people, according to preliminary estimates – poured out across the United States. AFP

Don's chief of staff tests positive for Covid-19

WASHINGTON

TRUMP'S chief of staff Mark Meadows has tested positive for Covid-19.

Meadows, 61, told people he had coronavirus after the election, CNN reported. He first tested positive on Wednesday, a day after the poll, according to the New York Times.

Meadows was part of a crowd in a room at the White House early on Wednesday when Trump spoke to around 150 of his top aides and supporters, the Washington Post reported.

Incendiary texts traced back to Trump's aide

A texting company run by one of President Donald Trump's top campaign officials sent out thousands of targeted, anonymous text messages urging supporters to rally where votes were being counted in Philadelphia on Thursday, falsely claiming Democrats were trying to steal the presidential election.

Two unnamed sources told the AP that the texts were sent using phone numbers leased to the text-messaging platform Opn Sesame, whose CEO is Gary Coby, the Trump campaign's digital director. AP

KAMALA BECOMES FIRST INDIAN-AMERICAN V-P

WASHINGTON

KAMALA Harris made history Saturday as the first Indian-American woman elected as vice president of the United States, shattering barriers that have kept men — almost all of them white — entrenched at the highest levels of American politics for more than two centuries.

The 56-year-old California senator elected to the vice presidency represents the multiculturalism that defines America but is largely absent from Washington's power centres. Her Black identity has allowed her to speak in personal terms in a year of reckoning over police brutality and systemic racism. As the highest-ranking woman ever elected in American government, her victory gives hope to women who were devastated by Hillary Clinton's defeat four years ago.

Harris has been a rising star in Democratic politics for much of the last two decades, serving as San Francisco's district attorney and California's attorney general before becoming a US senator. After Harris ended her own 2020 Democratic presidential campaign, Joe Biden tapped her as his running mate. They will be sworn in as president and vice president on Jan. 20.

Biden's running mate selection carried added significance because he will be the oldest president ever inaugurated, at 78, and hasn't committed to seeking a second term in 2024.

Harris often framed her candidacy as part of the legacy — often undervalued — of pioneering Black women who came before her, including educator Mary McLeod Bethune, civil rights activist Fannie Lou Hamer and Shirley Chisholm, the first Black candidate to seek a major party's presidential nomination, in 1972. AP

Nations long scolded by US over elections mock Trump's fraud claims

BOGOTA

DEMANDS to stop the vote count. Baseless accusations of fraud. Claims that the opposition is trying to "steal" the election.

Across the world, many were scratching their heads Friday — especially in countries that have long been advised by Washington on how to run elections — wondering if those assertions could truly be coming from the president of the United States, the nation considered one of the world's most emblematic democracies.

"Who's the banana republic now?" Colombian daily newspaper Publimetro chided on the front page with a photo of a man in a US flag mask.

The irony of seeing U.S. President Donald Trump cut off by major media networks Thursday as he launched unsubstantiated claims lambasting the U.S. electoral system was not lost on many. The U.S. has long been a vocal critic of strongman tactics around the world. Now, some of those same targets are turning around the finger.

Venezuelan President Nicolás Maduro laughed as the vote dragged on past Tuesday, briefly breaking into the hymn of his nation's annual beauty contest on state TV, singing, "On a night like to night, any of them could win."

In Africa — long the target of US election guidance — one Kenyan commentator spun out satiric tweets, drawing freely from clichés that long have described troubled elections and questioning the strength of US democracy in.

Kenyan cartoonist Patrick Gathara tweeted that Trump "has barricaded himself inside the presidential palace vowing not to leave unless he is declared the winner," with a mediator "currently trying to coax him out with promises of fast food." Along with the mockery comes dismay. Many in Africa see the US as a bellwether for democracy.

PIVOT TO BIDEN

Murdoch outlets dump Trump as voting ends

NEW YORK

FOX News and the New York Post, magnate Rupert Murdoch's main media outlets, have started distancing themselves from Donald Trump as the US election vote counting drama drags on -- a first since the president came to power and a potential turning point.

On Thursday night in Phoenix, Arizona, supporters of Trump bluntly shouted "Fox News Sucks" in reference to the news outfit considered fiercely loyal to the president for the past five years.

Fox News infuriated Trump and his people on election night by calling Arizona for Joe Biden.

Jared Kushner, Trump's advisor and son in law, called Murdoch in vain to try to get that call retracted. Other media held off from calling the battleground state for Biden as the tallying of ballots continued.

Since that night, Fox News has stepped very carefully around allegations of massive vote fraud coming from the Trump campaign and the man himself.

"We just haven't seen it. It hasn't been presented to us," Fox News anchor Brett Baier said on the air Friday.

So people are asking if Fox News, which helped bring Trump to power in 2016, is in the process of dumping him as Biden closes in on the magic number of 270 electoral votes that would win him the White House.

DePauw University communications professor Jeffrey McCall said Fox News has always had a twin identity -- on one hand, star anchors who are more editorialists than journalists and on the other a newsroom that is much more measured.

Some Fox journalists, such as Chris Wallace, are very well respected professionals.

Fox star Sean Hannity, who is very close to Trump said on Thursday evening, "Americans have every right to be suspicious ... to distrust the legitimacy of the results."

UAE reforms law to broaden personal freedoms

DUBAI

THE United Arab Emirates announced on Saturday a major overhaul of the country's Islamic personal laws, allowing unmarried couples to cohabitate, loosening alcohol restrictions and criminalizing so-called "honor killings."

The broadening of personal freedoms reflects the changing profile of a country that has sought to bill itself as a Westernized destination for tourists, fortune-seekers and businesses despite its Islamic legal code that has previously triggered court cases against foreigners and outrage in their home countries.

The reforms aim to boost the country's economic and social standing and "consolidate the UAE's principles of tolerance," state-run WAM news agency reported, which offered only minimal details in the surprise weekend announcement. The government decrees behind the changes were outlined extensively in state-linked newspaper The National, which did not cite its source.

Changes include scrapping penalties for alcohol consumption, sales and possession for those 21 and over. Although liquor and beer is widely available in bars and clubs in the UAE's luxuriant coastal cities, individuals previously needed a government-issued license to purchase, transport or have alcohol in their homes.

The new rule would apparently allow Muslims who have been barred from obtaining licenses to drink alcoholic beverages freely. AP

The New York-based investment bank also plans to transfer about 100 employees from the British capital to the EU by the end of the year, the person added. Brexit means financial institutions can no longer base staff for EU-wide financial services in London.

BIDEN WIN HERALDS
better trade, more open borders for India

GURBIR SINGH

AS Joe Biden inches his way to victory and Donald Trump struggles to bear the ignominy of being the first one-term President of the United States (US) in the last two-and-a half-decades, it is time we took stock of what it means for India.

Looking back, it appears our Prime Minister miscalculated by a long shot. Narendra Modi's visit to the US last July was crowned by the 'Howdy Modi' event in Houston. Members of the Indian community laid out a thick red carpet for both Trump and Modi. The extraordinary bonhomie provided the backdrop of what was seen as a tacit endorsement of Trump's bid for Presidentship.

That was strange considering that the small 6 per cent or so Indian US community overwhelmingly votes Democrat, and Trump's policies towards émigrés have been particularly cruel. Notwithstanding criticism, our Prime Minister followed up with the 'Namaste Trump' event in India on February 24 and 25 this year, where the US President and his family were treated to an ego massage by lakhs of cheering people crowded into a sports stadium in Ahmedabad.

Donald Trump looked truly overwhelmed. But the grand feting of the US President clearly went beyond normal diplomatic protocol into the domain of partisan support for Trump and his policies. To add to Mr Modi's embarrassment, Trump in his final election debate recently attacked China, Russia and India for their "Filthy Air". It left many gasping, and had 'Howdy Modi' trending on twitter!

Restoring fair trade

Compared to Trump, Joe Biden is a sober politician who knows India better. (Trump, it is believed, shocked Prime Minister Modi once, when he didn't seem to know that China shared a common border with India.) Biden points to his role as the Chairman of the US Senate foreign relations committee, when in 2008, he navigated the historic India-US nuclear deal and rolled back sanctions that had been imposed after the Pokhran blast.

Long-term, Trump did not deviate from his predecessors on the basic India perspective, and Joe Biden too is likely to keep to the script that sees India as a counterweight to China and a strong outpost to combat Islamic and other forms of terrorism.

On trade, Donald Trump has always been a hawk. He threatened sanctions if India did not lower tariff barriers against US imports, while he himself erected barriers in the US that have seriously dented our exports. When in October 2018, India bought 5 units of the SA-400 missile defense system from the Russians, Trump threatened trade sanctions which are still on the table. The same kind of bullying was visible when New Delhi continued to buy cheaper Iranian oil despite US' unilateral trade embargo imposed on Iran.

The trade war intensified last year when in June 2019 India imposed tariffs against 28 US products in retaliation to the US' impost of 70 per cent on Indian steel and aluminum imports. With Biden, trade practices are likely to return to more equitable levels. UBS Global Research too has predicted more favourable trade policies with India in case of a Biden win.

Easier immigration

Extremely damaging to Indians has been Trump's general anti-immigration policies. These include a ban on issue of fresh H-1B visas which restrict tech companies from stationing their staff for reasonable periods in the US. Recent months have also seen the ban on visas for foreign workers in general as well as restrictive practices against foreign students, many of whom had to return home when their visas were not renewed.

In contrast, Joe Biden has promised a liberal immigration policy that looks at immigrants as a positive resource for the US. He has therefore promised to do away with Trump era restriction on immigration, and to stop the construction of the Mexican wall. He has also promised a "road map to citizenship" for people living in the US illegally. These will benefit a large chunk of our young job seekers or those seeking to join their families in the US.

What has been significant is the steady erosion of India's economic power in recent years and a growing perception that we have a tough regulatory system for investors.

The international arbitration award in favour of Vodafone in September ruling India was in breach of the "guarantee of fair and equitable treatment" is a case in point. In reviewing ties with the new US administration, our weaker bargaining power will be a matter of concern.

In many ways, Trump and Modi spoke the same language in areas such as law enforcement and building alliances against 'terror' groups. Joe Biden and a liberal Democratic regime will flag local thorny issues such as Kashmir and minority rights. The left wing of his party represented by figures such as Alexandra Ocasio Cortez are active and will demand to be heard. This is bound to be a cause of concern for the Modi administration.

Health, Covid-hit sectors set to get Budget boost

Union Budget 2021-22 to focus on infrastructure and manufacturing

ANURADHA SHUKLA @ New Delhi

SECTORS that were badly hit by the pandemic, such as aviation, tourism, hospitality, are likely to receive special focus during the upcoming Union Budget. The government is also planning to double health spending.

"The government has started the budget process and taking feedback from various industries. While core infrastructure and manufacturing will be in focus, the ministry is working on a special package to support industries which have been hit by the pandemic, including aviation, hospitality, and tourism," a senior official from the finance ministry told this publication.

The official added that in the pre-budget meeting with Prime Minister Narendra Modi and officials of the finance ministry, there was general agreement that the budget for healthcare needs to be enhanced, keeping in mind the Covid-19 situation. "At least double, since Covid-19 is still around," an official said.

The next budget is set to be a major challenge for the government, struggling as it is with low revenue collections-with a widening fiscal deficit on one hand and high borrowing and expenditure on the other. This year, the government had cut corners by postponing many low priority spends. However, economists believe there needs to be more spending to kickstart the economy.

The government has already indicated strongly that the upcoming Union Budget 2021-22 will have a strong focus on infrastructure and reforms, and will look to provide relief from the impact of the pandemic. So far, the budget team of the finance ministry has already met representatives from the MSME, housing, steel, and power ministries and is set to meet others going forward.

India to woo sovereign wealth and pension funds with tax exemptions

JAYANTA ROY CHOWDHURY @ New Delhi

INDIA will aggressively woo sovereign wealth funds and pension funds with tax exemptions to entice them into investing in sectors including telecom, transport, logistics, energy, and education.

"We are talking to some of the top pension funds including from the US, Norway and Denmark, as well as with sovereign wealth funds from Saudi Arabia, Kuwait, Qatar and Singapore. We want to get them to invest top dollars in long term projects in energy, including renewables, telecom, water, and sewage treatment plants, food logistics, industrial parks, and even in education," said a senior finance ministry official.

> We are talking to some top pension funds from US, Norway and Denmark, as well as with sovereign wealth funds from Saudi Arabia, Kuwait, Qatar, and Singapore
> Senior finance ministry official

The Prime Minister has already held talks with 20 top funds and officials say they were building up on the talks. "There is a provision in the income tax act from this year's budget to give such funds a tax exemption for specified infrastructure investments. We have given one such exemption earlier this week, more will follow," an officials said.

Abu Dhabi's Sovereign Wealth Fund-MIC Redwood 1 RSC Limited-became the first foreign SWF to be granted 100 per cent income-tax exemption for long-term infrastructure investments.

The Government could expand the list of infrastructure projects eligible for tax exemptions "depending on demand for specific sectors." SWFs and Pensions funds are being wooed since they hold trillions of dollars in assets, of which a large slice is usually invested in long term debt or equity.

The top five global pension funds alone hold nearly $4 trillion worth of assets. Assets under management at the world's 300 largest pension and sovereign funds had increased in value by 8 per cent to a total of $19.5 trillion in 2019, according to statistics compiled by Thinking Ahead Institute. "We are targeting the big 20 as they account for 40 per cent of this money. But others are also welcome," a finance ministry official said. "They like predictability of returns and safety. We think we can promise them that."

Adani Enterprises wins coal block in Jharkhand

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ New Delhi

GAUTAM Adani's Adani Enterprises on Saturday won the rights for the Gondulpara coal mine in Jharkhand. Adani Enterprises made a final offer of 20.75 per cent revenue sharing for the Gondulpara coal mine, the coal ministry said. The mine will generate an annual revenue of ₹520.92 crore and has a geological reserves of 176.33 million tonnes of coal, according to the ministry.

The bidding for coal mines in Jharkhand comes in the backdrop of Friday's Supreme Court order that said the allocation of coal blocks for commercial mining would be subject to its directions. "Any subsequent order of licence, lease etc shall be provisional for now, subject to final orders of the court," it had said.

The Hemant Soren-led Jharkhand government had previously filed a case with the apex court against the Centre's move to auction mining rights for the commercial sale of coal. In June, Prime Minister Narendra Modi launched the auction process for the commercial mining of 41 coal blocks, a move that opened up the coal sector to private players.

Companies like Vedanta Ltd and EMIL Mines and Mineral Resources Ltd had also been vying for the Jharkhand coal block allocated on Saturday. Only one coal mine from Jharkhand was put up for auction on day six of the auction.

The coal ministry said that the e-auction had witnessed strong competition and that the mine had attracted a good premium over the floor price.

Including Saturday's single block, the government has so far auctioned 18 mines. A total of 38 coal mines have been listed for e-auction, out of which nine are situated in Jharkhand.

Hazard, Casemiro test positive for coronavirus

Real Madrid's Belgian forward Eden Hazard and his Brazilian teammate Casemiro have both tested positive for coronavirus, the La Liga club announced. "Real Madrid informs that our players, Casemiro and Eden Hazard, have tested positive in the Covid-19 tests undertaken yesterday, Friday, in the morning," the club said.

It's time to talk about Kohli, the skipper

Royal Challengers Bangalore and national team captain continues to lead franchise despite not much success since 2013

VENKATA KRISHNA B @Chennai

EIGHT seasons. Zero titles. Number of matches lost (47) > matches won (44). These numbers don't make for good reading for any captain. But this is how Royal Challengers Bangalore have performed under Virat Kohli. Seasons have come and gone, players have come and gone and so have the coaches. But Kohli, the captain, has remained.

In a meet where franchises change captains if runs or results go dry, Kohli is an exception. None of the team owners have shown as much patience as those of Bangalore's when it comes to retaining the skipper. In fact, Bangalore, under Kohli have only made it to the playoffs only thrice in eight years.

Bangalore may have not even thought of looking beyond Kohli as captain. The argument is Kohli is not only their best player, but as a brand, he brings more to the franchise. Despite not winning titles, it's understood Bangalore still remain one of the revenue-making franchises partly because of Kohli.

Saying that, there is the need to take into account his performance with the bat. Be it as India captain or at RCB, Kohli has thrived under responsibility. As captain, he has scored runs and averages more than any top player. Also as a senior player, his role as a mentor in the team is being highlighted. It's one reason why the franchise loath to remove him as skipper. On Saturday, RCB head coach Simon Katich, when asked about Kohli's captaincy, mentioned how he has mentored Devdutt Padikkal this season.

"I think what we've seen is someone that's highly professional, someone that's very, very well-respected by the group here, and not just for what he does on the field. (He) spent a lot of time around the group, in the team room, and socialising with everyone — and we saw someone that is very invested in this group, spent a lot of time with the younger players, particularly when we paired him up with young Padikkal as a mentor. And we saw the growth in him throughout the tournament, having that time speaking batting with Virat Kohli is invaluable for his growth, and that's the side a lot of people don't see with Virat," Katich said.

So far with the national side, Kohli hasn't had any competition to the captain's throne. But with every season without a title, comparisons have already started with Rohit Sharma. Rohit has already won a record four IPL titles since 2013 and is on the verge of lifting a fifth with Mumbai Indians. Whenever he has stepped in as stand-in captain in Kohli's absence, Rohit has been more successful with the national side, and has even lifted Asia Cup without losing a match in 2018.

The previous selection panel under MSK Prasad believed there was no need for split captaincy, but Rohit is making a strong case to take over in limited-overs. India's next big assignment is the T20 World Cup in 2021 at home and it is fair to say Kohli's position is safe until then. By then another IPL would have come and gone. If Kohli doesn't win the IPL title in 2021, then the selectors may be under pressure to usher in change.

Lack of batting depth costs Challengers again

ASHIM SUNAM @Bengaluru

AFTER 13 seasons, Royal Challengers Bangalore are still searching for their maiden Indian Premier League (IPL) title. After winning seven in the first 10 matches, Bangalore suffered five defeats in as many matches including the Eliminator against Sunrisers Hyderabad.

At the top, youngster Devdutt Padikkal shone the brightest by scoring 473 runs in his debut year. However, there was hardly any support from other batsmen. It was one of the main reasons for their inconsistent performance.

Shivam Dube managed 129 in nine innings, Washington Sundar scored 111 in nine games, Gurkeerat Singh hit 71 in five matches. The foreign imports — Chris Morris hit 34 in 5 innings and Moeen Ali made 12 in three matches — did not contribute much either. "Yes, it is important for the batting unit (to fire in unison)" said head coach Simon Katich in virtual interaction. "In T20, batting has to be adaptable and flexible. It is the nature of the game, where the situation dictates how you have to play. There are no actual set positions in T20. Lot of times, it comes up as to how you go against a certain match-up and make it hard for the opposition captain."

New signings including Aaron Finch and Josh Philippe did not impress too. The Australian captain managed 268 in 12 matches at a strike rate of 111 whereas wicketkeeper Philippe scored 78 runs in five matches. That apart, Bangalore also toiled to find boundaries in the middle overs. Even Kohli also struggled to some extent as his overall strike rate of 121 suggest. Not at his usual best, Kohli hit only 23 fours this season — he ranks 27th in the list of batsmen with most number of boundaries. However, Katich defended his approach.

"We had consistent opening partnerships this season.....As a by-product of that, Virat (at number three) came into the innings outside the powerplay on a number of occasions, which is never an easy time to start your innings, particularly in the UAE, where conditions were slower," said Katich.

However, there were some positives as well. If Padikkal was the pick of the season, Washington, Mohammed Siraj, Morris and Navdeep Saini impressed with the ball. "The core group is good, but we need a little bit of tweaking. No doubt about that. We have talked about the middle-order. That cannot be fixed by just the overseas players, we have to look at how we might do that rather than necessarily stack one part of the game. It is a balancing act," said the team director Mike Hesson.

SRH vs DC @7.30 PM

Final call

A struggling Delhi Capitals take on high-flying Sunrisers Hyderabad in the IPL Qualifier 2 in Abu Dhabi on Sunday. Talking points..

PEAKING AT RIGHT TIME

Hyderabad have now won four of their last five matches with both batting and bowling firing at the crucial time. The addition of Jason Holder, who came in as a replacement to Mitchell Marsh, has strengthened the team.

BATTING WOES

Batting continues to hurt Shreyas Iyer's men. Barring Shikhar Dhawan, the top-five doesn't look convincing enough to pose a threat with the likes of Prithvi Shaw and Ajinkya Rahane failing miserably. All-rounder Marcus Stoinis has chipped in with the bat and ball but the team need batsmen to perform collectively.

294 No of dot balls bowled by Rashid Khan and T Natarajan this IPL.

6.46 Axar Patel's economy rate this season, best among Delhi bowlers.

ODDS DC 11/10 SRH 9/11

VALUE FOR MONEY BUYS

On the one end of the spectrum, the likes of Pat Cummins, going for lots of money, have disappointed in IPL this season. But, on the other end of the scale, there are a few bargains who have shone. A look at five such players...

ANRICH NORTJE, DELHI CAPITALS (₹50 LAKH)

Picked as a replacement for Chris Woakes, the South African has certainly excelled in a two-man pace attack also featuring compatriot Kagiso Rabada. Nortje's pace and movement off the deck have caught the eye. In fact, he bowled the fastest ball in the IPL's history this year.

M: 14, W: 20, E: 8.30, SR: 16.30, BBM: 3/33

JASON HOLDER, SUNRISERS HYDERABAD (₹75 LAKH)

Another replacement who went unsold at the auction. Hyderabad got him as a mid-tournament replacement for Mitchell Marsh and the West Indian leader, picked for the base price, hasn't looked back. His variations have yielded 13 wickets and his lower-order batting bouts have made the side a bit more secure.

Bowling: M: 6, W: 13, E: 8.15, SR: 11.07, BBM: 3/25

Batting: R: 55, HS: 26*, SR: 144.73

RAVI BISHNOI, KINGS XI PUNJAB (₹2 CRORE)

Not a lot went right for KL Rahul's men with the ball but they will be happy with Bishnoi's returns, even if they picked him up for 10x his base price of `20 lakh. Out of all Punjab bowlers, he had the best economy rate and among spinners, was the fifth best across the league. A solid long-term investment for the KL Rahul-led franchise. M: 14, W: 12, E: 7.37, SR: 25.5, BBM: 3/29

TRENT BOULT, MUMBAI INDIANS (₹2.2 CRORE)

The Kiwi may be one of the sport's nicest men but he has been a one-man wrecking machine with the ball. Most wickets in this season's powerplay, he has used the strip well to get purchase off it to trouble batsmen. Delhi will regret trading him when they could have used him themselves up top with Kagiso Rabada and Anrich Nortje.

M: 14, W: 22, E: 8, SR: 14.54, BBM: 4/18

SAM CURRAN, CHENNAI SUPER KINGS (₹5.5 CRORE)

Considering Chennai will have to change the core of the team and getting that premium overseas all-rounder is a must for all teams hoping to win the title, Chennai have lucked out. In an auction where Dhoni & Co opted to lay low, they did identify Curran's key attributes for `5.5 crore. At Chepauk, his skill-set will be worth their weight in gold for years to come.

Bowling: M: 14, W: 13, E: 8.89, SR: 19.38, BBM: 3/19

Batting: R: 186, HS: 52, SR: 131.91

Honourable mentions: Kartik Tyagi (Rajasthan, ` 1.3 cr), Rahul Tewatia (Rajasthan, ` 3 cr), Abdul Samad (Hyderabad, `20 lakh) | NOTE: FIGURES AS ON NOV 7.

WOMEN'S T20 CHALLENGE

SUPERNOVAS WIN THRILLER AGAINST TRAILBLAZERS

SHARJAH: Supernovas defended 146 to beat Trailblazers by two runs in the Women's T20 Challenge on Saturday. The two teams will once again meet in the final on Monday. Deepti Sharma (43 n.o) and Harleen Deol stitched a 52-run partnership for the fifth wicket to put up a fight in the chase, however, that was not enough. Chamari Athapaththu hit a 48-ball 67 to help Supernovas post 146/6.

Brief scores: Supernovas 146/6 in 20 ovs (Chamari 67, Harmanpreet 31) bt Trailblazers 144/5 in 20 ovs (Deepti 43 n.o; Smriti 33).

Barca, United post wins

BARCELONA: Lionel Messi came off the bench at halftime to score two goals as Barcelona beat 10-man Real Betis 5-2 on Saturday to end its four-game winless streak in the Spanish league. In the Premier League, Bruno Fernandes inspired a Manchester United fightback against Everton, scoring twice in their 3-1 win to ease the pressure on Ole Gunnar Solskjaer.

Pandemic & new rule factors behind Oz flavour in ISL

SWAROOP SWAMINATHAN @Chennai

WHEN the seventh edition of the Indian Super League (ISL) opens later this month in Goa, one of the most visible trends of the transfer window will make its presence felt straight away, former A-League players plying their trade in India.

Even if players from Australia's top-tier league have made the switch to the ISL in years past, the upcoming season will see 14 players who played for clubs in the A-League last year.

Why is that the case? "You can't really zero in on one factor," says Mandar Tamhane, Bengaluru FC's Chief Executive Officer (CEO). "The new ISL rule on nationality, Fox's TV rights issue and players from the A-League have had some success in India are all contributing factors."

The new ISL rule, ratified in July, says only four foreigners can play at any one time.

However, among those four, one will have to have Asian roots. "This has meant some clubs looking at the Australian market and that's why you see some clubs buying Australian players," Tamhane points out.

There's more than a grain of truth in that sentiment. In the first six editions of the league, only six Australians played in the league. This year? The eight clubs between them have snapped up eight Australians, all of them from A-League.

The exodus is starker this year because, like Tamhane says, Covid-19 has brought about some problems for the clubs there. After the pandemic halted play, Fox 'used a force majeure clause in the original deal with FFA (Football Federation Australia) — worth $57mn a year — to walk away with three years remaining on the agreement...' according to the Guardian. Even if Fox have renegotiated that deal since the reduced deal is reported to be worth only $32mn till the end of the 2020-21 season. As a consequence, clubs have had to embrace austerity measures.

And ISL clubs have had capitalised on that by taking players on loan who would have otherwise played for their parent clubs. Take the example of James Donachie, who will turn out for FC Goa in the upcoming season.

The former Australia-21 international, who only moved to Newcastle United Jets in April, was snapped up by Goa on loan a month later. That ought to explain the credit crunch.

The new rule of having one Asian player rule has also helped in the sense India's lingua franca of English helps. It's a point Tamhane also makes.
